By JOSEPH A. BORS

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The war department reported today that American flying fortress bombers shot down five enemy pursuit planes in carrying out devastating raids on enemy held airdromes in New Guinea, indicating that United States aircraft and submarines already are on the offensive in the Pacific.

In the wake of successful submarine attacks in the far Pacific, the war department in its latest communique, stated that "all buildings were destroyed and heavy damage was inflicted" on Japanese invasion points north of Australia.

Attack Airdromes

The bombers attacked airdromes and dock facilities at Salamaua and Lae in New Guinea, scoring numerous hits on installations.

It was the second successful U. S. Army bomber raid in the Australian

Some of these days there is a liklihood of maple sap being boiled down in Fairmont Avenue, because several trees have been tapped and receptables have been placed to catch the sap. No doubt those who tapped the trees are thinking forward to the time when it may not be as easy as it is now to obtain syrup for hot cakes.

U. S. Submarines Increase Attacks On Jap Shipping

By JOSEPH A. BORS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 13.—America's offensive against Japan appears to be under way today, with United States submarines forming the spearhead of the counter-attack, increasing the tempo of their raids on Japanese shipping from the East Indies to the island empire itself.

While the nation's undersea craft have been active since the start of the Pacific conflict, recent reports indicate they have widened the range of operations with increasing success.

Within the past few days the navy intimated the wide-spread scope of submarine operations by reporting successful raids in Nipponese waters and in other Far Eastern areas, presumably in the southwest Pacific.

One Sub Sinks Four Ships

In the latest raid somewhere off the coast of Japan proper, a lone U. S sub sunk four ships, including three freighters and a passenger cargo boat.

Just a few days ago in other areas,

Charge Submarine Killed Seamen Who Were In Lifeboats

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, March 13—An enemy u-boat, after pouring over 200 shells into a helpless American oil tanker, ran down and killed all but four of the seamen as they tried to escape in lifeboats in Caribbean waters.

That was the story of viciousness revealed today as the four who escaped with their lives, recuperated at a hospital.

Ruthless destruction of the tanker, described as medium-sized, was officially announced by the Fourth Naval District, which said that there was no information regarding the 34 other members of the sunken ship's crew.

The Fourth Naval District statement relating facts on the tanker's destruction follows:

"Four survivors of a medium-sized American tanker, shelled and sunk by an enemy submarine in the Caribbean area Feb. 28, arrived here Tuesday evening aboard another ship.

"The remainder of the tanker's crew of 38 have not been accounted for.

"The survivors said the ship was attacked without warning about 4:15 a. m. Feb. 28 by a submarine which poured about 200 shells into the tanker, but fired no torpedoes.

"The submarine, they added, ran down and sank two of the tanker's lifeboats and a life-raft.

"The survivors said the ship was sank within five hours after the pre-dawn attack, and that they drifted on two life-rafts until they were picked up at 4:45 p. m. March 5.

"Master of the tanker was I. J. Nielsen."

Midway Island Still Defies Japs

Latest Nipponese Attack On Island In Pacific Is Frustrated

By JOHN HENRY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Little Midway Island, after three months of sporadic attacks, continued to hold out today against the powerful Japanese offensive.

Latest Nipponese thrust to crush the small American garrison of navy men and marines in the central Pacific was thwarted decisively, the Navy Department disclosed, when U. S. aircraft felled one heavy Japanese seaplane and routed another.

This action, which occurred last Tuesday, went down in modern military annals as but another chapter in the drama of Midway's heroic resistance. The island, like other American outposts, was subjected to attack shortly after the war began with Japan's wide-flung assault of December 7.

Despite their stubborn defenses, other garrisons comparable to Midway's fell one by one into Nipponese clutches, but Midway remains like a thorn pricking Japan's drive through the Pacific.

Hocus Pocus, Kiwanis Show, Pleases Crowd

Dazzling Production Will Be Presented Again This Afternoon And Evening

YOUNG STARS OF CITY AID MAGICIAN

Featuring Burgette, a magician of the top rank, and aided by a galaxy of local stars, the New Castle Kiwanis Club presented Hocus Pocus, a show just a little out of the ordinary at The Cathedral with two performances yesterday, a matinee for the school children in the afternoon and an evening production.

Both drew packed houses, and so many children had to be turned away because of a lack of accommodations, that a second matinee was scheduled for this afternoon, with the concluding performance tonight.

Benefit Of Kiwanis Fund

The production is being staged for the benefit of the Kiwanis' Underprivileged Children fund, and a generous response has been received from the public as evidence by the attendance at the first two performances.

The show is featured by snappy choruses, backing up some of the finest musical talent in the city in the solo numbers, and interspersed with some fine magical acts, along with the usual tom foolery of a good musical comedy show.

"Everything starts with rhythm," the program stated, and the show began with a group of high school drummers, led by Bill Alexander as flash drummer, with a chorus of Magic Rhythm Girls, a group of snappy young dancers.

Next came some sorcery from the magician, followed with some humorous imitations by the Three

Forget Politics Urges President

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 13—President Roosevelt today called upon the country to forget politics and remember that a serious war is in progress.

He particularly suggested that too large a section of the press and too many members of congress are thinking in terms of the past in talking politics.

This is war, the President said, and there should be a greater concentration of public effort on the winning of it.

Asked whether his injunction applied to members of his cabinet, Mr. Roosevelt replied that he had not seen very many instances where his aides indulged in any flagrant playing of politics, and when he had noticed such instances he had stepped on them.

Judge Wilson couldn't see it, and denied the petition.

Heavy Bombing Attacks On Kiel

Other Objectives In Northern Germany Also Blasted By R. A. F.

LONDON, March 13—Heavy R. A. F. bombing attacks during the night on the port and naval base of Kiel and other objectives in northern Germany were announced by the British air ministry today.

The communique said bombs were seen bursting on shipyards at Kiel and that many fires were left burning there.

Mines were sown in enemy waters during the attack, from which eight British bombers failed to return, the air ministry said.

For the time being the British air ministry revealed only that R. A. F. planes were "over enemy territory last night."

The German radio claimed the R. A. F. bombed a northwestern French city last night, "hitting a church and civilian houses and causing some casualties."

Recently the R. A. F. has directed bombing assaults against plants outside Paris which are working for the German war machine.

Congressional Mail Reveals Taxpayers Favor U. S. Sales Tax

WASHINGTON, March 13.—A survey of congressional mail, reflecting the sentiment of the people back home, today revealed that the taxpayers greatly favors a general sales tax over other proposed new or increased levies as a means of financing the war.

Legislative advocates of the sales tax predicted that after the deadline three days hence for payment of present heavy income taxes, this volume of mail will reach sufficient proportions to enable them to override administration opposition and write this levy into the new tax bill.

Many income tax payers, especially in the lower and middle brackets, it was pointed out, are finding

NEW RIOTING IN RIO DE JANEIRO

Special Police Needed To Halt Raids On Axis Business Places

(International News Service)

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 13.—New rioting broke out in the streets of Rio de Janerio today when special police were called to disperse crowds to prevent a repetition of yesterday's destructive raids on Axis business establishments.

Angry crowds, aroused by Axis sinkings of Brazilian ships, again surged through the streets crying bitterly against the losses of Brazilian lives and property.

Armed guards patrolled the areas where German-owned business houses had been wrecked. It was noted that no Italian establisments were molested by the inflamed crowds, whose anger reached explosive proportions with official confirmation of the torpedoing of a fifth Brazilian ship.

Infuriated citizens manhandled a number of Germans and one who shouted "long live Germany" was promptly arrested by a federal judge who was passing by.

Another German, a bank employe, threatened the crowd with a hand grenade but was quickly disarmed and arrested by police.

Reports from Sao Paulo said crowds had formed there but were dispersed by police before they did any damage to Axis-owned shops.

Police, apparently fearing a general repetition of yesterday's disorders, dealt severely with isolated groups of would-be rioters, dispersing them with shots fired into the air and threatening immediate arrest.

Japanese Push For Australia Bogging Down

Smashing Aerial Attacks By U. S. And Australian Airmen Slows Program

TWELVE TRANSPORTS AND WARSHIPS LOST

Bomber Pilots Being Implored By Gunners To Tangle With Enemy

By LOUIS LECK
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SYDNEY, Australia, March 13.—Smashing aerial attacks by Australian and United States airmen against Jap invasion bases on New Guinea and New Britain islands have bogged down the Nipponese push toward the Australian mainland.

This became clear today as latest reports showed at least 12 Japanese transports and warship have been knocked out of action by the savage blows of the United Nations airmen. The Jap vessels have been sunk, beached or set on fire under the non-stop rain of bombs.

These aerial attacks, informed quarters indicated, have given the Australian mainland still more time to prepare its defenses for the Japanese assault which the entire population now expects.

Australian airmen are putting up a tremendous fight against the Japanese invasion armadas in New Guinea waters and against Jap bases at Salamaua, Lae, Finschafen and Rabaul.

Even the gunners of Australian bombers—planes which are supposed to bomb and not tangel with enemy fighters—are imploring their pilots to close in on Jap planes and give them a chance for a whack at the enemy.

An Australian bomber pilot said it is not part of a bomber's duty to

Continue Battle Over Farm Measure

Large Sum Is Cut From Bill

Farm Bloc And Economy Forces Continue Tug-Of-War Over Measure

PARITY PRICES LEADING ISSUE

By ARTHUR HERMANN
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The farm bloc and economy forces renewed their tug-of-war today as the house convened an hour early in a drive to complete action on the badly mangled agriculture department appropriation bill.

Farm bloc leaders smarted under the latest strategy of the economy advocates which deleted $21,250,000 from the farm tenancy loan program.

Prior of this set-back, however, farm bloc leaders had succeeded in overwhelmingly defeating amendments which would have gravely impaired the nine-year-old drive toward parity prices for farm products.

Restrictive provisions against the sale of government owned or controlled farm products at less than parity prices were retained in the bill in the face of direct condemnation by President Roosevelt.

Amendments already adopted have reduced the amount of the bill by $75,000,000 to a total of $620,000,000 in direct appropriations and loan authorizations.

Awaiting Action

Still remaining to be acted upon is an amendment by Rep. Dirksen (R) Ill., to reduce appropriations for the rural rehabilitation program by $25,000,000. In addition, there is a reported move to reduce an authorization now in the bill permitting loans from the RFC of up to $70,000,000 for the program.

Republicans voting en bloc and supported by a smattering of conservative Democrats yesterday voted 120 to 104 to cut $20,000,000 from an authoriaztion to borrow $45,000,000 from the RFC for the farm tenancy program.

The amendment, authored by Rep. Case (R) S. D., was passed after the farm bloc had attempted an unsuccessful maneuver to force adjournment before the cut could be written into the bill.

Another amendment, offered by Rep. Dirksen (R) Ill., was approved 109-82, and reduced the allowance for salaries and expenses of the farm tenancy program from $2,500,000 and $1,250,000.

A third amendment, by Rep. Pierce (D) Ore., to eliminate funds for the farm tenancy program entirely, was defeated.

All of the cuts thus far written into the measure, which originally provided $695,000,000 for the agriculture department, may be restored on roll call votes just prior to the final tally on the bill.

"The situation on the Prome road around Tharawaddy has been stabilized."

"Operations on the Toungoo road are proceeding in the Nyaunglebinshwegyin area."

MELBOURNE, March 13.—Royal Australian Air Force planes have again bombed the Japanese-held airdrome at Gasmata, New Britain island, an R.A.A.F. communique said today.

Columns of smoke rose into the air as the attacking planes left the scene. Other Australian aircraft engaged in reconnaissance flights over New Britain and New Guinea.

LONDON, March 13.—A Bangkok radio report relayed to London said today that an "Allied army" penetrated 100 miles into Thailand and engaged Thai forces near Chiengmai.

The report claimed the invading forces were defeated after a two-hour battle.

Chiengmai is the northern base of Jap and Thai forces which have been preparing for a thrust into northern Burma. United Nations lines in that area were last reported manned by Chinese troops.

had gotten up to start the fire in the home, and get ready to go to school at Mt. Jackson, where he is a student in the seventh grade. Just what happened, is not clear, as it all happened so quickly, but it is believed the oil stove exploded. In an instant the kitchen was a mass of flames, and he was unable to escape by the back door because the lock was broken.

Escape Onto Roof

With his clothing ablaze, he ran upstairs, and notified the rest of the family, who escaped through the front window onto the roof.

The home of Mrs. J. T. Stephenson, immediately adjoining to the north, mother of Mrs. Smith, and the home of Russell Ryhal, to the south, were saved from destruction by Seventh Ward Firemen, under Assistant Fire Chief, George Harper, who laid a line of hose and pumped water from Hickory Creek, a short distance away. The Stephenson home had already caught fire, and the Ryhal home was badly scorched. Pennsylvania Motor Police were also at the scene and directed traffic during the fire.

In addition to the parents, and the burned youth, there is a daughter, Delores Mielke, aged 12, and a baby, James Smith, Jr., aged about 3 years.

It is estimated that there are not fewer than 10,000 mineral springs of which nearly 1,000 produce waters in commercial quantities.

war theater. Previously heavy American bombers scored hits on seven Jap invasion ships.

On Bataan Peninsula, meanwhile, the lull in land fighting continued, indicating that the Japanese were awaiting aerial reinforcement before resuming their thrusts at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces.

Elsewhere in the far Pacific United States long range submarines were believed to be continuing their recent successful raids on enemy shipping from the East Indies to the island empire.

Communique

Text of the communique, was as follows:

"Philippine Theatre — The situation in Bataan is unchanged.

"New Guinea — Five American Army heavy bombers of the flying fortress type raided the Japanese-held airdromes at Salamaua and Lae in New Guinea on March 11.

"All buildings were destroyed and heavy damage was inflicted in the runways.

At the harbor of Lae a direct hit was made on a pier.

"Our bombers were attacked by a formation of Japanese fighting planes.

"Five enemy planes were shot down. None of our bombers was damaged.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

My skin is somewhat tender and sensitive—all over. So one day I thought—"Why not go on the Camay Mild-Soap Diet—all the way?" It worked wonders for my complexion—and now it's doing the same for all of me. I'm pleased as punch. Hooray for big BATH SIZE CAMAY!

Now that I've had my "rest-cure"—I'm feeling great again—ready to have fun this evening! There's nothing better than a Camay bath to wash your troubles away—to help you feel your best and look your loveliest. Don't envy me—get BATH SIZE CAMAY yourself—today.

HEROES OF THE TANKER FLEET

"ANOTHER tanker torpedoed." Again the grim headline brings sharp reminder of the debt the nation owes to its brave sailors of the sturdy tanker fleet, daily risking their lives in performing a service as essential to the winning of the war as that of our soldiers on the firing line.

Oil, as has been said, is ammunition as truly as powder and shot. It is imperatively needed to keep the wheels of the war industries whirring, the fighters and bombers in the air, the Army's tanks and trucks in motion. In transporting other indispensable supplies the entire American merchant marine has been living up to its noble traditions, but the courage and determination of the heroes of the tanker division have been especially dramatized by these recent spectacular sinkings off our shores.

The intensive campaign by the Nazis against American tank ships is a tribute to these vessels' vitally important role in our all-out war. The nation places its confidence in the continued devotion to duty which these intrepid men of the sea have so strikingly shown. It knows that they can be relied upon to keep the supplies of the precious fluid—"the lifeblood of our war effort"—moving through the submarine-infested waters and into our ports.

Unarmed but unafraid, these men are setting an example of dauntless patriotism in the face of peril deserving the highest praise that can be bestowed by a grateful people.

BRAZIL'S EMERGENCY MEASURES

Emergency measures taken by President Vargas of Brazil were, as Acting Secretary of State Welles notes, wise and necessary in view of Axis aggression against that country.

Although no state of war has existed between their countries, Axis submarines have sunk four Brazilian ships in the Atlantic and Japan has treated Brazilian diplomatic agents in Tokio virtually as prisoners of war, holding the ambassador incommunicado.

President Vargas has ordered the suspension of all sailings to the United States and the recall to Rio of all ships now en route to this country. In addition to these safety steps, he has issued a decree enabling instantaneous declaration of war. This paves the way to quick seizure of Axis property in Brazil, the imprisonment of Axis subjects and whatever other action is considered necessary for national defense.

Probably because of Brazil's outspoken friendship with the United States, the Axis Powers have displayed increasing hostility toward that republic, as the ruthless sinkings of its ships attest. This attitude, of course, has accomplished nothing but to push Brazil to the brink of open war and further its plans for callaboration with the United States in crushing the common enemy.

GIRL SCOUTS AND FREEDOM IN A DEMOCRACY

Girl Scouts have been getting training in citizenship in their troops and councils for thirty years—thirty years on March 12, to be exact, and the reason for the excellence of that training is not hard to find. We quote a few excerpts from the Girl Scout Handbook on the subject:

"Some people think that a citizen is any persons who has the right to express his opinion and ideas about government through the ballot; in other words, by voting. But really every person living in a community is a citizen and the things he does every day determine whether he is a "good" or a "bad" citizen. A good citizen is one who is useful to his community, through his thoughts, his words, and his actions.

"You hear a great deal about "freedom", 'my country", "democracy", and so on. Perhaps you could think of "freedom", "democracy", and "my country" in the United States in this simple way—as though you were speaking of a troop instead of a country. In a troop, freedom should mean that the members are free to give opinions, make suggestions, and to take responsibility; to vote for or against plans that are considered troop affairs . . . No girl should be held back by other girls and not given a chance to advance in troop activities. Each girl should understand that the majority opinion is the one to abide by in doing things the democratic way, but she should also remember the fact that minority ideas must have consideration and respect.

"In all the ways mentioned above you may find freedom and democracy in a troop. In the same way you must help your country to be a real democracy with freedom for all who live in it.

"In the expression "my country", the word 'my" is possessive pronoun . . . It is generally understood that you can take care of a thing that belongs to you. You do not take off a dress and throw it on the floor. . . . If you have a little animal that you call 'my dog" you do your best to give it good care.

"When you say "my country", you should understand that it is yours and deserves your care and protections. Remember that "my country" is not some great figure that stands over you with a stick and tells you what to do. This is simply a way of referring to a certain part of a continent with people, trees, flowers, birds, mountains, and lakes whose future is in the hands of every person living in it.

"Some people have more chance or greater ability to help this country to grow in usefulness that others, but everyone has some chance to help, no matter how small it is."

With the fundamentals of good citizenship so simply and yet so forcefully and eloquently expressed, it is easy to understand why Girl Scouts are good citizens. Congratulations to them on the thirtieth anniversary of Girl Scouting, and long life to them.

HAPPIGRAMS

Priorities have finally caught up with babies.

Not until the end of the war will they be perambulated down the avenue in those shiny rubber-tired buggies that were the parents' pride.

A maximum size for baby carriages is now being worked out by the government.

No more fifteen-pound metal bodies; only a metal spring. Wood will be used for pushers and frame. Chromium trimmings are out. Gray will be the prevailing color.

Instead of leather for the upholstery, pyroxylin, a substitute will be used and there is even a possibility that only two-wheeled baby carriages will be manufactured for the duration.

However, here is an ironclad guarantee that there will be no priorities on these two vital accessories: a mother's love and her baby's smile.

Building arms isn't the only seven-year job we must do in one. We must also build a mental attitude.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TRAIN CHILD TO EAT WHAT'S GOOD FOR HIM

Ever so many children over six years of age are not getting a proper diet. While a few don't have the right foods, many who have, refuse good food prepared for them. Thousands of mothers who know what children need for a balanced diet rarely or never prepare some of the most essential foods because they know their child won't eat such foods. No matter how many defense courses on foods these mothers attend, their efforts may be futile until they learn ways of inducing their child to eat what is set before him.

Many a mother, on discovering how inadequate the diet of her child is will suddenly grow panicky. She may proceed to nag and lecture the child with no result but increased unhappiness for the entire family at meal time.

Nagging Futile

Suppose you have a youngster six, nine or 16 who refuses to eat any essential cooked cereal as oatmeal, or whole wheat bread, or any vegetable but white potato. Can you do anything about it? That depends chiefly on you and your relations with this child. From experience, you know that nagging and scolding will get you nowhere, that indeed, they will render your child more resistant.

If you have stirred up emotional scenes over eating, your first step is to work on yourself for the next month or so, saying nothing the while about the child's eating or choice of food, nor even showing any concern by the way you look, breathe and move at meals. Other adults need to do likewise. All the while you will help cultivate an agreeable, happy family atmosphere at meal time.

Period Of Self Discipline

During this self-discipline period you will make no marked changes in the menus for the family. Of course, the adults of the family will always eat what is set before them without a single unfavorable comment.

This successfully accomplished, you might announce to the family at the close of the evening meal, that for breakfast on the morrow one cooked cereal and no other will be served.

But suppose your boy of eight or your daughter of 14, at breakfast or lunch, goes to the kitchen to get dry cereal or white bread. In case you have cultivated no control over these children up to then, you can do nothing and might as well keep silent about the matter as long as there is a dry cereal or white bread in the house. If, however, your child has respect for your authority (established in earlier years) you can say effectively in normal tones just once, "This cereal or nothing." "This bread or none."

Spirit Of Patriotism

For this school-age child it might be reasonable to require him to eat some of everything served. He may take a very small amount. According, he might choose a portion of turnip mash no bigger than a soup bean. Very well. Having done so, and continuing to do so, for every food served that he does not like, he will eventually chose more and more of it, even learning to enjoy it.

Already, some families are, in the spirit of the family council, resolving together as a patriotic duty to eat, for the duration, at every meal such essential foods as whole wheat bread. In ways like this the family gain in comradeship, contribute to the defense of our democracy and build bodies to be fitted better for doing their bit.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Lately my five-year-old boy has taken a notion not to say his prayers. I have tried to force him to do so without results.

A. Quit trying to force him. Scolding or punishing him will only make his saying the prayers less attractive to him. Wait for several nights. Then try to set the sage so he will want to say them. If dad would join you and the child it might help. Make attractive what you want the child to do; painful only what you want him never to do.

Mother's Influence Helps Daughter's Career

"My sister's child seems to have talent for dancing, which is all well and good; but my sister's persistence in trying to push this 12-year-old daughter on to a great career annoys our whole family. Don't you think it is wrong for a mother to do this to a child so young?"—Auntie.

Answer: Mothers who appreciate their daughters' talent can do much toward pushing them into high places with the application of tact and persistence. Of course, these children's schooling must not be neglected; nor should they be permitted to go on even a short tour without being chaperoned.

Most of the girls of my acquaintance who have become stars of the stage, screen and radio owe their early successes to ambitious, industrious mothers who have made early contacts with agents or producers and who have traveled and lived with their daughters during the early period of their career when they have needed protection and advice. Appalling is the proportion of potential starlets born to twinkle unseen because unappreciative parents have held their light under the proverbial bushel.

Question: When should the families of the bride and groom leave the church after the wedding ceremony.—Beatrice.

Answer: Not until after the recessional is over, when they leave in order of precedence; first the bride's mother, then the groom's mother, followed by those in the first pews. The other guests should remain in their places until after the families of the bridal couple have proceeded down the aisle. The bride's mother should be the first to leave after the recessional.

Question: When a death notice states that flowers are to be omitted, should one strictly adhere to it?—H. A.

Answer: If you are a very dear friend of the deceased or his family, you are privileged to disregard such a notice. But if you are merely an acquaintance, in either a social or a business sense, you should then respect it.

What's What At A Glance

Would Like Public Surplus Dissipated
Treasury Department Anxious In Matter
Don't Like Borrowing To Pay Income Tax

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 13—SURPLUS currency!" The Federal Reserve Bank of New York employs the term in one of its latest monthly review. It's used in connection with a discussion of means of sopping up as much as possible of the surplus, which, it's predicted, certainly will inflate prices or cheapen our money (two different ways of saying the same thing) if it isn't held down to a minimum.

What I'd like to know is, though: "Who's got any such surplus now?"

Treasury officials, however, say the reserve bank is quite right about it. They indorse every word in the entire article.

Among other things, it warns bankers generally against making loans to individuals to help pay their income taxes. It's explained that these taxes have been hiked and are being hiked higher yet, not only because Uncle Sam needs the cash, but also to foreclose the public against having a nickel's worth of surplusage left after it has satisfied the revenue collector. And of course, it'll have a temporarily remaining modicum, if it can borrow the dough for the present. True, it'll have its borrowings to liquidate later, and that, when the time comes, undoubtedly will send its surplus up the flue. The treasury doesn't want to wait until then, though; it wants that surplus evaporated with no delay at all.

I can understand that folk may be well advised not to postpone the agony. Quite likely it'll be still worse when it belatedly sets in. However, the taxpayers' ultimate welfare isn't what the reserve bank's thinking about. Its aim is to desurplusize them immediately.

Bonds Out of Incomes

The bank makes another suggestion, which perhaps has a certain merit, directly to income recipients, though that isn't made intentionally for their benefit, either, but as a surplus-reducing recommendation.

Some few people have a little cash saved up in bank accounts—"hoarded," as the reserve bank expresses it.

Well, a vigorous campaign is being waged to induce thrifty souls to invest in defense bonds. Their inclination is to do it out of their already accumulated hoards, spending their current incomes for immediate living requirements. This current spending is what the reserve bank is anxious to curtail, since it'll be more and more inflationary as civilian supplies grow scarcer and scarcer and buyers start bidding for them competitively. Accordingly, the bank's plan is to persuade them to do their defense bond buying out of their day-to-day incomes, forcing them to economize on everything else.

To be sure, their previously saved up hoards are a surplus also, but that's a surplus that's more or less frozen; the average citizen, who may be willing to blow in all he makes, as he goes along, is apt to be reluctant to tap his bank account to meet deficits. He'll pinch himself instead.

It'll lower his living standard today, naturally, but possibly it's sound economic reasoning, as to the long run.

Just what the long run is going to be like nobody knows.

Preventing a post-war depression in advance never has been tried before. How it will work this time it will take the future to tell.

One Type Loan Urged

While the Federal Reserve Bank of New York doesn't want private banks making loans to income taxpayers, Chairman Charles B. Henderson of the Reconstruction Finance corporation wants them to loan liberally to small manufacturers, to enable them to readjust their plants for war production. He urged a bankers' meeting in New York City recently to be as accommodating about it as they can, believing it to be money safely invested financially and essential for war needs.

The RFC will attend to it if necessary, he said, but it's a program he doesn't like to complicate the government with any more than is unavoidable.

Attorney General Francis Biddle is on the discussion with comment of his own. Our war effort, he emphasized at a big meeting some evenings ago, musn't put a crimp into the New Deal's long-run socio-economic program. A lot of editorial and congressional comment is to the effect that it can't help doing so.

New Dealers hope for the best, Anti-New Dealers hope for the best from their angle.

We'll see.

The World and the Mud Puddles

A SINGLE TAX.

Speaking of taxes, why not a national transaction tax, not a sales tax, but a transaction tax? That sort of a tax would include sales taxes. In other words, a flat tax upon all transactions, which would include sales of the manufacturer to the middleman, sales of the middleman to the retailer, sales of the retailer to the ultimate buyer. It would include sales of all sorts of property—the sale of a house, the sale of a lot; the sale of anything possessed by one individual, the title to which was transferred to another; the sale of professional services of a Doctor or a lawyer, the sales of all professional men; the sale of all stocks, bonds and securities of all kinds. In other words, a tax upon every transaction transpiring within the jurisdiction of the United States of America.

It would require a tax of a very small percentage. Roughly estimated, the net income of the people of this country for the year 1942 will be one hundred billion dollars. That is the amount, over and above all expenses of business. In order for the people of this country to enjoy a net income of one hundred billion dollars this year, over and above all expenses, it is safe to say that the total transactions involved would have amounted to a thousand times that sum. A two per cent transaction tax would, therefore, net the Federal government twenty billion dollars—enough to take care of not only national expenditures, but the expenditure of every state, county, city and hamlet within the

Brothers Die In Electric Chair

Two Pay Penalty For Murders, In Sing Sing Prison Last Night

(International News Service)

SING SING PRISON, N. Y., March 13.—The Esposito brothers—whose viciousness won them the name of "Mad-Dog Killers"—maintained their feigning of insanity right up to the electric chair, prison guards revealed today.

Anthony, 37 years old, and William Esposito, 30, had to be carried into the death chamber last night, after they both had ignored the traditional right of a condemned man to have anything he wants for his last two meals.

The brothers were executed for the slaying of Alfred J. Klausman, office manager of Kemp & Bentley, linen dealers, of New York City, whom they shot down in cold blood in an elevator just off Fifth avenue at 34th street on January 14, 1941, and Patrolman Edward F. Maher in the chase that followed.

Throughout their trial the brothers feigned insanity, according to authorities, and continued their "act" while in prison awaiting execution. Gov. Herbert Lehman, however, turned down last minute appeals to save them as a board of psychiatrists had ruled they were sane but "hysterical."

Radio Progress Has Helped End Bank Robberies

(International News Service)

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 13—A decade ago, during the palmy days of John Dillinger, bank robberies flourished in Indiana, with 35 in one year.

But science and cooperation of law enforcement authorities have practically eliminated this type of chime, according to Don F. Stiver, superintendent of the Indiana State Police.

During all of last year there was only one attempt to rob a bank—at Jeffersonville and the bandit was captured in exactly four hours and 26 minutes after he had fled from the financial institution. The loot also was recovered.

In 1939 and 1940 there were 10 bank holdups, of which eight have been solved.

Two-way radio communication is the scientific element which has all but abolished the bank raids, Stiver said. Local, state and Federal officials now also are united in the fight against crime.

The World and the Mud Puddles

nation and the Federal government could apportion the necessary amounts to the various political sub-divisions of the nation.

This would eliminate all other taxes of every kind. It would eliminate probably fifty different sorts of taxes imposed by the Federal government and by the States, Counties and cities. If, peradventure, twenty billion dollars was not enough to take care of all of the overhead, extravagant as it might be, in all the sub-divisions of the nation, an income tax of a like flat two per cent might be added with exemptions of $3000 for married citizens, plus $400 for each dependent and $1500 for all single persons, having no dependents. This would be a very fair tax. Congress today shies at the sales tax because it says, peradventure, it will cause inflation. There are many States in the Union that have been collecting sales taxes for several years, and there has been no inflation of prices within those States.

No, the real reason why Congress shies at any tax of this sort is because it will hit all of the people and Congress does not do business that way. The directors of the tax gathering forces of this nation wish to collect from a few only. They do not wish those whose votes they rely upon to be taxed at all. Boss Kelley, of Chicago, for instance, would be terribly incensed if the mob who supports his government would have to pay a tax.

As far as the gathering of this tax is concerned, the Treasury Department of this nation has erected a very efficient tax collecting organization that curry-combs every income tax return and investigates where they think there is any excuse for investigation. As snoopers, the employees of the Internal Revenue Department have no equals. They are past masters of investigation. There is an ample body within the nation to see to it that all transaction taxes would be paid. There would be no excuse for any additional Bureau. The citizens, in turn, would have only one tax to pay, at most, only two,—the transaction tax and the income tax, and as far as the number of citizens whose income does not exceed, for a single person, $1500 and a married person, $3000, that number would only have to pay a single tax—the transaction tax.

Will Study Relation Of Diet To Fatigue, Using Soldiers For Test Work

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, March 13.—Soldiers of the U. S. Army will be used as experimental subjects in a special two-year study of the relation of diet to fatigue to be conducted by Dr. Ancel Keys of the University of Minnesota, special consultant on foods to Secretary of War Stimson, it was announced today by Dr. R. C. Newton, vice president in charge of research of Swift & Company.

Dr. Keys, who is director of the new laboratory of physiological hygiene at the University of Minnesota, is the eighth scientist in American universities selected by the company for fellowships to conduct research on the nutritive properties of foods, in furtherance of the government's National Nutrition Program.

Prof. Charles C. King of the University of Pittsburgh, noted for his discovery of the chemical identity of Vitamin C, Dr. H. S. Longenecker, assistant professor of chemistry, and Dr. Karl F. Mattil, research fellow, who jointly awarded the first of the fellowships. They will carry on research into the chemistry of fats and oils and their relative values in the diet.

The fellowship to Dr. Keys will enable him to carry on studies in connection with dietary and physiological research he has undertaken for the government. In the University of Minnesota's new laboratory varying conditions of climate will be produced in control rooms in which soldiers will do work, run on treadmills, and otherwise be tested as though they were laboring in cold or tropical countries, at sea level or at high elevations.

One of the aims is to stimulate exertion and fatigue occuring in industrial occupations. By feeding the men diets differing in composition and amount, Dr. Keys expects to establish relationships between certain foods and degrees of fatigue.

Before joining the Minnesota faculty in 1937, Dr. Keys was successively a national research fellow at Copenhagen and Cambridge, a Cambridge lecturer, Harvard instructor, and Mayo Foundation professor.

Governor Urges Law Changes For War Period

Series Of Bills Being Framed

Governor Says Many Laws At Present Hamper State's War Effort

SPECIAL AUTHORITY REQUEST DENIED

By EVERETT GERRY
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, March 13.—His hope of acquiring emergency authority all but vanished, Gov. Arthur H. James exhorted the legislature today to modify many laws which threaten to hamper Pennsylvania's all-out war effort.

While insisting on the soundness of the so-called war powers bill enabling the State Defense Council to suspend or modify statutes found to be impeding the war program, Governor James said he would "work with whatever tools the legislature gives me".

A series of bills suspending for the duration the provisions of laws administered by eight or ten state departments will be introduced next week, legislative leaders indicated, as a substitute for the governor's broad measure.

"If the legislature persists in what I believe to be an unsound decision, not responsive to the needs of the commonwealth and the emergencies of war, I will make the best of it," announced the governor.

"I still believe there is reason to hope....a majority of the legislature will reach the same conclusion I did some weeks ago...that the emergency requirements of this war need emergency authority to deal with them, and that the proper place to lodge that emergency authority, under proper safeguards, is in the State Council of Defense."

Should Recast Laws

In event legislative leaders decide on amending laws instead of authorizing the council to grant exceptions as the need arises, he pointed out, the General Assembly should recast laws which may soon be an impediment to war and defense activities.

It will be necessary, he said, either to empower the milk control commission, the departments of health and agriculture to suspend certain statutes covering the production, supervision and distribution of milk, or for the legislature itself to amend these various acts so that federal regulations can be applied to Pennsylvania.

The entire school code appears to need modification to make temporary adjustments involving the length of the school day, periods and numbers of days for schools to be in session, and closing of schools in emergencies, added the governor.

Changes Urged

The legislature was urged by him to:

Modify licensure acts to permit schools, colleges and universities to shorten and intensify their courses, to prevent a shortage of professional and licensed services during the war emergency, and to give to young people about to be inducted into armed or other war services a maximum of educational opportunity.

Modify statutes to permit the 1942 automobile license being used thru the 1943 licensing period, with addition of a small tab bearing the new date and a special serial number.

Permit transportation of bona fide war materials by truck in quantities and weights exceeding the present statutory limitations.

Modify statutes concerning the purchase of materials and supplies for commonwealth and local needs to permit essential purchases to be made under priority and rationing conditions.

Modify laws controlling the handling and transportation of explosives so as not to handicap the armed forces.

Modify health statutes to insure that state authority and facilities may be used to the fullest extent in controlling and alleviating any epidemics that may occur.

Amend statutes covering building codes and structural requirements so that essential construction, private or public, can proceed.

Amend such statutes as may be necessary to empower the commonwealth to meet distress and emergency needs in event war disasters suddenly deprive families in large areas of their homes, food and essentials.

Amend the public utility law to insure compliance with emergency regulations and restrictions of federal programs. New emergency highway, airport and similar construction rising from war needs may be delayed, the governor warned, unless the Public Utility Commission can be given broader jurisdiction for requiring the removal and relocation of high tension and other wires.

Provide wider latitude in reciprocity between the states regarding the employment of physicians and nurses.

Amend statutes requiring the use of metal in any manner to permit the use of such substitutes as the priority and rationing programs recommend.

Amend all laws setting standards for motor vehicles so as to permit full compliance without violation of law with blackout conditions, since blackouts, air raids or other emergencies will create conditions incompatible with provisions of the motor code.

Can Use Cars Only For Certain Purpose

Tire rationing regulations which have been issued by the Office of Emergency Management, Washington, D. C., will affect the operation of city automobiles.

One of the regulations orders:

No vehicle equipped with tires or tubes for which a certificate has been granted shall be used by the officials in charge of fire-fighting services unless they are actually engaged in direct fire-fighting work.

Another regulation affects police and orders:

No vehicle equipped with tires or tubes for which a certificate has been issued shall be used to convey police officers to or from their usual stations, except in case of emergency, nor shall such vehicles be used for official convenience when public means of transportation will serve.

Some employes of city hall and other bureaus of the city use their own cars and received small amounts from the city with which to pay gas bills. Under the law these employes will not be able to secure tires under the rationing regulations.

The regulations also says "no vehicle equipped with tires or tubes for which a certificate has been issued shall be used to convey public health and safety officials to and from their usual stations, except in case of emergency, nor shall such vehicles be used for official convenience when public means of transportation will serve."

Release Japanese Seized In Raids In Philadelphia

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, March 13.—Twenty-five Japanese seized in a series of lightning raids by federal bureau of investigation agents were released early today after questioning by Assistant U. S. Attorney James P. McCormick.

Scores of maps and other documents pertaining to the eastern seaboard defense belt were said to have been seized, along with several guns, cameras and short wave radios.

Most of the Japanese arrested were employed as servants in the homes of the wealthy, F.B.I. agents said, but they were taken into custody at their favorite recreation places since Thursday is the traditional "servants night out" for main-line families.

Michael Leonard, Erie Fire Fighter 50 Years, Dies

ERIE, Pa., March 13.—Michael P. Leonard, an immigrant from Ireland who rose from the ranks of a minute man back in the '80s to fire chief in 1928, died at his home on Thursday, of a heart ailment and a stroke. He was stricken a week ago.

Temporary Ceiling On Rayon-Cotton Goods Announced

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Charging that present prices on finished goods made from cotton and rayon were entirely too high", the OPA today imposed a temporary price ceiling on such products pending issuance of permanent regulations.

The action, it was explained, was designed to prevent further rises in the price of many items made from finished piecer goods such as women's and children's dresses, women's suits, coats, housecoats, pajamas, men's shirts, curtains and drapery materials.

The temporary order sets maximum prices at levels no higher than those prevailing between March 7 and 11. While it does not apply to retail sales, OPA officials expressed belief that it would prevent further increases in prices to the consumer.

Charges Steinbeck With Cruelty In Divorce Action

(International News Service)

SALINAS, Cal., March 13.—Blaming the break-up of their marriage on "too many women—one in Hollywood," Mrs. John Steinbeck, wife of the noted author, today had an interlocutory decree of divorce.

Mrs. Steinbeck, the former Carol Henning, a writer and poetress in her own name, charged cruelty in her complaint, alleging she had been left alone "too often" at their Pacific Grove home, while her husband enjoyed the company of other women.

She did not name the other women, or "the one in Hollywood."

The court ratified a property settlement in which Mrs. Steinbeck was awarded a lump sum of $111,000, plus 12 bank accounts of $5,000 each and $10,000 in government bonds.

The 40-year-old author who rose to literary fame with his "Grapes of Wrath," and "Of Mice and Men," did not contest the action.

They were married in 1930 and have no children. According to the complaint, they separated several months ago.

Dr. W. J. Long, in his American Literature, suggests that James Fenimore Cooper's Leatherstocking Tales should be read in the following order: Deerslayer, Last of the Mohicans, Pathfiner, Pioneer and Prairie.

Democrats Are Meeting Again

Make New Attempt To Agree On Harmony Slate For Election

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 13—Democratic party leaders will meet at Harrisburg today to make one more attempt to slate a harmony candidate for the gubernatorial nomination and avoid a three-way battle at the May 19 primary election.

Their efforts, however, appeared headed for little success since U. S. Sen. Joseph F. Guffy remained firm in his support of Judge Ralph H. Smith, Pittsburgh.

The state committee, which meets here to morrow, doubtless will indorse Auditor General F. Clair Ross as the party's standard bearer. Despite the committee's action, Luther A. Harr, Philadelphia, is expected to remain in the race and assure a three-cornered battle although he has offered to withdraw in favor of a harmony candidate.

In a statement blaming the "party's foremost leaders" for the bitter wrangling that has marked the attempt to pick a compromise candidate, Harr stated that his candidacy "most emphatically does not stand as a barrier to harmony." He is backed by democratic state chairman Meredith Meyers.

"Even at this late hour," Harr declared, "I desire to state again that if these leaders and those who participate in the party's councils can agree upon a capable democratic liberal under whose standard the party can unite, I will not stand in the way."

Following a conference of party leaders at Washington, Guffey reiterated his support for Judge Smith asserting that the "only way to settle this thing equitably is through an open primary and without an indorsement of the state committee."

Advanced as harmony candidates at the meeting were William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to Russia and France; U. S. District Court Judge Guy K. Bard, Lancaster; and Orphans Court Judge Grover C. Ladner, Philadelphia.

Opera Star Held On Ellis Island

Investigate Alleged Boasting Of Ezio Pinza Of Friendship For Mussolini

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 13.—Ezio Pinza, Metropolitan Opera basso, was detained on Ellis Island today because he boasted, Federal Bureau of Investigation agents said, of his friendship with Mussolini.

The Italian born, 50-year-old opera star will be given a hearing within the next two weeks before an alien board. He may be interned for the duration unless he can convince the board of his good intentions toward this country.

F.B.I. agents revealed Pinza had never been openly identified with pro-Fascist organizations in this country but had frequently told of his "great friendship" for the Italian dictator.

Pinza was scheduled to sing in "Faust" at the Metropolitan tomorrow and was to go on tour with the opera company to fulfill engagements at Baltimore, Boston, Cleveland, Dallas and other cities.

Meanwhile 55 F.B.I. agents with the aid of local authorities and army and navy intelligence officers swept Nassau county, Long Island, and made 250 "spot raids." Many homes of aliens in the vicinity of Mitchel and Roosevelt field were visited. Eight Germans and Italians were arrested and taken to Ellis Island.

Pullman Company To Raise Rates On All Sleeping-Parlor Cars

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 13—Interstate Commerce Commission today granted the Pullman Co. an increase of 10 per cent in all of its sleeping car and parlor car rates, fares, and charges, and gave permission to file special tariff supplements carrying the proposal into effect.

The commission found that the increase as proposed will result in a rate adjustment for petitioner's services which are "just and reasonable," without prejudice to an increase in the so-called sub-normal rates.

The resulting increased rates fares, and charges, it was said, may be made effective upon not less than 10 days notice to the commission and to the general public.

Cautions College Girls To Beware War Marriages

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—College girls should stay in school and prepare themselves for reconstruction activities after the war instead of leaping into hasty "war marriages."

That advice was given today by Mrs. Carl I. Winsor of Wichita, Kan., national president of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority. She was recently in Albuquerque for the Pan-Hellenic conference of the University of New Mexico.

Mrs. Winsor told the co-eds good minds will be needed after the war and to prepare themselves now for the jobs ahead.

Another visitor, Miss Margaret Stephenson, dean of women at Oklahoma university, advised the co-eds to be more aware of the adult world about them, to learn to converse beyond the "he said, and I told him" of the usual college girl.

Remember France As Well As Pearl Harbor Is Plea Of Babson To Americans

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright—1942—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

BABSON PARK, Mass., March 13.—In a lifetime of active concern in helping solve the problems of management and labor, I have always been on the side of those who have been working to raise the workers' standards of living. I have always believed in collective bargaining. I recently told some employer friends that they better get ready for a day when the closed shop may be installed in our major industries and when labor may be represented on the boards of directors of such corporations. This is the present trend.

BABSON

Fighting For Our Lives

Democratic capitalism must be dynamic. It cannot stand still if it is to succeed against the inroads of other systems that are abroad in the world today. Furthermore, I realize that the hard-won advantages which the workers in this country have achieved over the years must not be thrown away. I say this much as a good friend of all concerned and as a former assistant secretary of labor during World War I.

The grim fact confronts us, however, that we as a people are today fighting for our very lives. The continued existence of all the values we hold dear is at stake in the global war which now encompasses us. If the United Nations are defeated, the status of the American working man aand woman will be degraded to that of slave labor. This is what some congressmen seem to forget when they insist that, in this grave emergency, we must continue to grant labor the 40-hour week. They even appeal to a willingness to extend general wage increases and otherwise permit labor to entrench itself even more strongly than before.

Are Congressmen Cowards?

I believe that such labor leaders as Philip Murray, president of the CIO, and William Green, president of the AFofL, are honest and sincere men. There are racketeers in the labor movement just as there are racketeers in business and in the professions. I'm not worried about those fellows. It's the short-sighted attitude of a majority of congressmen that I'm concerned about. This short-sightedness becomes almost criminal when congress permits labor leaders even to go so far as to call strikes in war industries in order to enforce labor's demands. Congress should at least immediately adapt the Canadian wage system. I sincerely hope congress will again hear from home as they recently did when voting themselves pensions.

The only argument I have heard advanced in favor of continuing labor's special privileges at this time is that other selfish groups are doing the same thing! We hear a lot about war profits and "the selfish insistence of farmers" in demanding still higher prices for their crops. I am opposed to excessive war profits. I am also reasonably certain that Secretary Morgenthau and the present pro-labor congress will syphon these profits out of corporation treasuries by the 1942 tax measure.

Beware Paid Lobbyists

This administration is not friendly to the stockholders of America and no one knows this better than our labor leaders who have waxed fat since Mr. Roosevelt was first elected. As to the paid farm leaders, their short-sighted selfishness is being stoutly fought by the president. In fact, he will, I believe, veto the farm parity bill if it passes in its present form. He is getting tired and disgusted with all paid lobbyists whoever they represent.

Our most dangerous foe today is not Hitler. It is not Japan. It is our own refusal to give up our selfish privileges for the duration of the war. From the evidence at hand, I regret to say that labor seems to be one of the worst offenders. The Russian people and the Chinese people are winning their battles because they are sacrificing everything to the common purpose of defeating the enemy. When we cease to think and act as labor union leaders, or as farm union leaders, or as corporation officials and begin to act as our embattled forefathers did at Bunker Hill and Valley Forge, we shall begin to win this war. Then—and only then—and not one day sooner.

Labor Bringing On Inflation

Even apart from primary patriotic reasons, labor must realize that, by insisting on the retention of its favored peacetime hours and wages status, it is bringing down upon all of us the full fury of inflation. Leon Henderson is absolutely right in his stand again wage increases, higher farm prices and other attempts to hasten the inflationary spiral. The retention of the 40-hour week is only an oblique insistence on further wage advantages. It marks the point at which overtime pay starts. I know workers are perfectly willing, anytime, in war or peace, to work 48 or even 54 hours a week. It is solely a question of wages that is involved.

The decreased output of consumers' goods means that for the duration we all must accept the reality of a readjusted standard of living. If the workers, by insisting on direct wage increases and the 40-hour week, push wage schedules skyward, they will merely be trying to lift themselves by their economic bootstraps. Their wage dollar will buy less and less of more and more articles. No system of fixed prices can prevent universal bootlegging.

Use More Defense Stamps

When wage increases are absolutely necessary, they should be paid in the form of defense stamps and bonds. There are two good reasons for this: (1) It would help sop up the surplus purchasing power that would otherwise go to speed up inflation. (2) It would provide a grateful cushion for the workers later on against the dislocations of the early post-war unemployment period when such bonds, converted into cash, would come in very handy. In fact, I believe more of present wages should be paid in defense stamps.

Labor is making a fundamental mistake if it insists that peacetime prequisites are permanently endangered if they are temporarily waived as part of the total war effort. I believe that some sort of legislation suspending the work-week limitations contained in 17 Federal laws should be enacted. Such a repeal can—by the legislative act itself—be confined to the duration of the war. After the war is over the former provisions would automatically become effective again. Such action would carry out the expressed wishes of the president in his last address to the nation when he asked that continuous and maximum war production be maintained. I frankly think that the house of representatives blundered when it rejected this proposal some days ago. I hope the senate will revive it.

Remember France As Well As Pearl Harbor

Let us not forget that one of the things which paved the way for the defeat of France was the insistance, just before World War II by the pro-labor Blum government, that French workers should retain their so-called 'social gains". This was the crazy attitude of the French government and of the French workers even in the face of the gathering storm. Those same French workmen are today laboring 70 and 80 hours a week at a mere pittance of a wage, turning out Hitler's war production. Were those workers able to speak to the millions of members of the CIO and of the AFofL, what would be their message today? I know what they would say. They would say "For what does it profit a worker to keep his 40-hour week for a little while, if he loses thereby everything he holds dear, including liberty itself?"

Prominent Britons Press Government To Launch Lottery

War - savings Sweepstakes, However, Are Unlikely To Succeed, Due To Tremendous Opposition

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 13—Believing the British war-savings campaigns has passed its peak and that a decline in savings must be expected from here on, influential people here today started a movement to press the Government to launch an official lottery scheme.

It is unlikely to succeed. Opposition to the suggestion already is tremendous.

Would Defeat Own Purpose

Those against the scheme declare the introduction of a lottery interest into a Government loan must defeat its own purpose in the end. To try to enlarge the number of savers by offering prizes would temporarily bring in the gamblers, but no more genuine savers, in their opinion.

They feel the gamblers would soon tire of listing their money, and then the Government would find itself with the same number of genuine savers as before, but with the added burden of providing prizes.

Those supporting the idea think a War Savings Sweepstakes with prizes part cash and part war bonds would be an immense success and would attract millions of new subscribers. They refute the contention that it would be bad for public morale by pointing out that the British have always been ready to gamble, that gambling has never resulted in depravity or lowering of morale in the country.

Small Savings at Peak

They point out that small savings in Government schemes have already reached their ceilings, and that revenue is in fact now beginning to fall. This, in their view, demands a new approach.

But they are up against the Church, a big percentage of the membership of the House of Commons, the Treasury, Bank of England, and other powerful factors.

A lottery scheme probably would only be tried as a desperate measure, should savings fail to vanishing point. And that is unlikely, in view of the well-organized schemes for collecting small sums from workers every week and other money-producing ideas.

Predicts Rubber Situation Will Be Readjusted

International News Service

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—California Highway Commissioner L. G. Hitchcock predicted to a San Diego audience that by July, 1943, the rubber supply situation will be "readjusted" to the satisfaction of American automobile owners.

"There is no reason why American ingenuity cannot work quickly to make us independent of our former sources of crude rubber within 19 months," Hitchcock declared.

"Untapped rubber fields in Brazil and Mexico, synthetic rubber production in the country and the guayule bush in the United States should provide on a large scale all the rubber we need by the middle of 1943."

He declared that whether or not motor traffic interferes with military activity and not the threatened rubber shortage should influence motorists to garage their cars for the duration.

Homicide Charge Faces Young Girl

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., March 13.—A charge of homicide was lodged against 15-year-old Emma Poletti today after she snuffed out the life of her father with a shotgun when he returned to his home at nearby Hegins, allegedly intoxicated and abusive.

Immediately after the shooting late yesterday, the girl called Schuylkill county authorities and surrendered. She was placed in the county jail.

Deputy Coroner Lynn Gravle said the victim, Peter Poletti, 44, an odd-job laborer, was shot in the head and died almost instantly.

Spiritual Emphasis Week At Highland

Dr. R. J. G. McKnight Of Pittsburgh To Be Speaker At Week's Services Here

For its annual spiritual emphasis week, beginning Sunday, Highland United Presbyterian church is bringing to New Castle the Rev. R. J. G. McKnight, Ph.D., D.D., president of the Reformed Presbyterian Seminary of Pittsburgh.

Dr. McKnight is well known in this area as a scholar and preacher, having appeared several times on the program of the Grove City Bible Conference and Slippery Rock Bible Conference. Last year, Dr. McKnight was a popular speaker both at the New Wilmington Missionary Conference and the National Y.P.C.U. Convention of the United Presbyterian church.

These special services will begin Sunday, March 15, and continue each evening next week, except Saturday, at 7:45 o'clock. Tuesday evening, Dr. McKnight will deliver his famous lecture for young people on "Jonah."

These meetings are under the general supervision of the Board of Deacons of the congregation of which William C. Schmid, Jr., is chairman.

BOY RECOVERING FROM DELICATE HEART OPERATION

Mrs. Cecil McAnallan of Harbor-East Brook road, has received word from her husband at Philadelphia, that the doctors have taken out the stitches from her son Harvey, about a week ago, which were used in the heart operations at Temple University. The doctors stated that he was getting along as well as can be expected, considering the seriousness of the operation. They state it may be possible to bring Harvey home next week. The latter will require much care and rest for some time to help his recovery.

Pearl Harbor Hero To Become Officer

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Staff Sergt. Joseph L. Lockard, 20-year-old Williamsport, Pa., soldier who was awarded the distinguished service medal for "exceptional meritorious service" at Pearl Harbor December 7, prepared today to go to the officers training school at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Lockard, whose warning of approaching Japanese planes went unheeded, blushingly accepted the medal from Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson while Mr. and Mrs. George Lockard, a sister and brother were on the sidelines.

"I hope it helps me to do a better job," he mumbled as Patterson pinned the coveted medal on his blouse.

If the Germans are superior, why must they kill the leaders of other races to prevent future competition?

1942 Sugar Crop In Puerto Rico Will Set Record

(International News Service)

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, March 13.—Puerto Rico has turned to its big sugar producing task with such vigor that all estimates of the 1942 crop appear now to be far short of the eventual total. Despite a strike that had 12,000 workers idle two weeks, the island more than trebled production during the first six weeks of the year over the same period of 1941.

According to the Puerto Rican Sugar Producers Association, a record total of 132,434 sugar and 7,555,472 cane tons was turned out during the first month and a half against 46,524 sugar and 414,424 cane tons last year. Seasonal totals may exceed the estimated 1,200,000 sugar tons, producers state.

Philadelphia Navy Yard Has One Of Finest Dental Clinics In The Country

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, —The Philadelphia Navy Yard now boasts one of the finest dental clinics in the country.

With emphasis on "oomph," rather than "ow!" the walls of the new extraction room are painted a delicate, nerve-soothing robin's egg blue.

Each of the 12 dental chairs is in a separate sound-proof private office. Partitions are non-existent, and the dispensary's central waiting room, which is air-conditioned, looks like a hotel lobby with pastel-colored walls.

A staff of 15 dental officers handle about 300 patients a day, according to Capt. Paul G. White, commanding officer of the dental unit. Before the war only three officers were needed to care for the navy yard personnel's dental worries.

White said the dental officers average 200 fillings and 150 extractions a month each.

Pride of the dispensary, however, is the new laboratory for working a special chrome alloy which has largely replaced gold and silver for various types of repair plates.

The only laboratory of its kind in the Navy, it is equipped with a pre-heating casting furnace that reaches a temperature of 2,200 degrees and a centrifugal casting machine. All types of bone splints, as well as dentures, could be turned out from this laboratory, it was pointed out.

British Forest Is Now Changed Into New 'Wild West'

(International News Service)

LONDON. — Hundreds of American-looking log cabins, built by lumberjacks from Newfoundland, have transformed the New Forest into Britain's "wild west."

It is the scene of the largest communial experiment in farming ever made in Britain.

Twenty thousand acres of the New Forest has been turned into a cattle ranch to support 10,000 head of cattle.

Commoners of this "People's Farm" become co-partners with the Government paying a grant of $20 an acre.

The scheme was launched with the definite purpose of increasing the cattle population, which has shrunk alarmingly.

Since the outbreak of war commoners who for centuries had bred cattle and ponies in the New Forest have gone into factories. The Government has therefore decided to give a grant to help buy calves, improve grazing and rear cattle to be sold under the Government's marketing scheme.

Rehearsing For Radio Varieties

Many Attractive Features Being Prepared For Union High Annual Show

Many attractive features are being arranged for the program to be presented at Union high school on Thursday and Friday evenings of next week, when the annual school presentation of "Radio Varieties" is to be staged.

Rehearsals are in full swing, and this year's show promises to be one of the best that has been given.

There are some 28 numbers in the course of preparation, giving a wide diversification to the evening's schedule.

Numerous musical features will be heard, and prominent among them will be popular solos. Among the soloists who will appear are Mary C. Green, Eleanor Montgomery, Adeline Mateja, Gene Mackey, Ruth Cox, Vince Galano, Donna Park, Edna Jean Usselton, and others.

There is every indication that the show will attract capacity crowds on both nights that it is presented.

The ordinary man can be decent and fair until he has power to benefit himself by wronging others.

Melbourne Broadcast Gives Account Of Combat Over New Guinea Coast

"Our planes skillfully glided from cloud to cloud, baffling the enemy by superior courage.

"It is also reported the R.A.A.F. planes attacked Japanese bases and oil depots but no details are given.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

GOOD-FLAVORED MILK IS DAIRYMAN'S GOAL

While striving to meet the demand for increased milk production, dairymen should not forget the fundamental rules for producing milk of high quality.

First, milk only healthy cows. Cows in ill health (off feed) produce milk of unpredictable quality.

Second, ventilate the dairy barn. If cows breathe contaminated air, caused by poorly ventilated barns, the milk from such animals will be off-flavored.

Third, milk cleanly and use clean utensils. Bacteria-laden milk utensils may cause off flavor.

Fourth, feed all roughages after milking. To prevent feed flavors, do not feed any feed for a least four hours prior to milking. Do not throw feed down before milking.

Fifth, store milk in a clean, cold place free from supplies and materials that will taint the flavor of milk by absorption.

PENNSYLVANIA FARMERS PIONEER IN STRIP CROPPING

Today we hear and read considerable about soil conservation. We may think that the methods advocated and employed to save the soil are new and were brought about by the present generation. This may be true in certain sections of our country, but not in Pennsylvania. Here farmers years ago worked out simple and inexpensive methods to reduce soil washing where their tillable land was located on steep slopes. Our farmers were among the first to adopt contour strip farming and in many instances with an exactness equal to or greater than what is advocated today.

Strip farming, sometimes called "flag farming," is the division of a slope into narrow bands or strips approximately 80 to 100 feet wide. The strips are as nearly on the contour or level as is practicable, and the crops are rotated and so arranged that two cultivated strips are not adjacent in the same year.

The oldest and largest trip farming area in the state is located in Lycoming county in and around Larry's creek, Linden, and Salladasburg. In this area are more than 200 farms worked in strips. This strip farming, according to present-day information, probably dates back to shortly after the Civil war. The soil is mostly red shale, the slopes steep, and the topography fairly uniform. In laying out the strips, levels apparently were not run but few strips are enough off contour to give serious trouble. The rounded type of hills apparently made it quite easy to do a good job without the aid of a level. Strips are quite wide in some instances, as much as 160 feet, but are doing a good job of checking washing.

In Montour county is a good example of contour strip farming started in 1896 by Edwin J. Beyer. He not only laid out his own farm but assisted two of his neighbors lay out their farms. He mounted a carpenter's level on a 16-foot board set on edge, with a leg on each end. As he moved the board across the slope, Charles Appleman followed with a team and plow and plowed the lines representing the strip boundaries. The original lay-out, with slight modifications, is followed by the present owner.

Similar examples could be cited in many counties of the state, such as Perry, Dauphin, Schuylkill, Jefferson, Northumberland, Indiana, Butler and Washington. The farmers in these counties who pioneered in simple soil conservation practices probably did not realize that they were starting an important movement in Pennsylvania agriculture.

Next week we will tell how the Agricultural Extension Service sets up demonstration farms to reduce soil washing and to teach farmers how to solve their own erosion problems.

TAKE GOOD CARE OF EWES AND LAMBS NOW

Lambing time is the shepherd's harvest, and good care and management of the flock now will pay big dividends.

A survey made in Lawrence county shows that the average farmer is raising fewer than 75 lambs per 100 ewes. However, 12 Lawrence county farmers who cooperated in a lamb improvement program sponsored by the Extension Service raised 99 lambs per 100 ewes. This increase over average results was brought about by good care and breeding. The thirty additional lambs per 100 ewes meant approximately $250 additional income.

Breeding ewes should be receiving a good legume hay, such as alfalfa, clover, or soybean. In addition to such roughage, our better flockmasters are feeding a grain mixture or equal parts of shelled corn and whole oats. The rate of feeding is from half to 1 pound daily. The same mixture should be placed in a creep for the young lambs, where they also can have second-cutting clover or alfalfa hay.

Wherever it is practiceable our better farmers are separating ewes suckling twin lambs from those with singles and are feeding accordingly. When ewes are fed liberally at this time of year and the lambs are creep-fed in addition, it is possible to retain the baby fat on these lambs until they go to market.

Under present conditions, the farmer who raises 100 per cent or more lambs in the flock is not only rendering a patriotic service to his country but also is adding to his own margin of profit.

TIMELY HINTS GIVEN TO FLOWER GARDENERS

Suggestions for the flower gardener include the hint that there is still time to take cuttings of house plants for use in the garden and consequent summer enjoyment.

Sweet peas can be planted outdoors as soon as the soil can be worked. For very early display they can be started indoors by planting four or five seeds in 4 to 6-inch pots and placing them in a cool, darkened part of the cellar until germination occurs.

After the seeds have germinated they can be grown in a cool temperature of about 50 degrees during the day and about 10 degrees less temperature at night. After danger of severe freezing is past the young plants may be set out without disturbing the root systems.

Look over the garden tools to make certain that they are in good condition and ready for use. The lawn mower should be sharpened and wornout parts replaced.

Fertilizers of a 4-12-4, 4-8-7, 5-10-5, 4-16-4, or other similar analysis may be purchased from your reliable seed dealer, hardware store, or general tradesmen and be ready for use.

GET THE GOOD FROM VEGETABLES

Now that the tag end of winter is on us—it's a good time to check over the repertoire of current vegetable dishes, suggests Miss Ann Quinn, home economics extension representative for Lawrence county.

Is your family getting the good—in food values and happy eating—from every vegetable you serve? Some of the following practical suggestions for getting the good from vegetables may help you check on your present care and preparation of vegetables. They are offered by the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The Good in Vegetables

As a group, the vegetables are a valuable source of many of the vitamins and minerals we must have daily for good health. They also furnish other food values in varying amounts. But the vitamins and minerals are the values we can lose most easily by careless preparation.

Of these—vitamin C is the easiest to lose. Some of it may be destroyed by heat, some of it disolves in the cooking water, and soda increases its destruction. Vitamin B1 is also lost in the same ways. Minerals are not destroyed by heat, but they do dissolve in cooking water, and you lose some of them if you throw away the pot liquor.

Among the nutritionally important foods are tomatoes, green-colored vegetables—especially the leafy green ones — and yellow vegetables.

Tomatoes, like citrus fruit, are an excellent source of vitamin C—whether you serve them fresh or canned. That's the reason nutritionists recommend one serving daily of tomatoes or citrus fruit, or some other fruit or vegetable rich in vitamin C.

Both yellow and green-colored vegetables are rich sources of carotene, which the body can turn into vitamin A. Green vegetables also are good sources of iron, most of them are good sources of vitamin C, and some supply a goodly amount of calcium as well. The leafy greens rate even higher than other green vegetables for their content of carotene, iron and vitamin C. For these reasons, nutritionists recommend one serving of either a yellow or a green vegetable every day.

Besides these two vegetable "musts," everyone in the family needs at least two or more servings of other vegetables or fruits. If you can have more, that's even better.

A RAW VEGETABLE EVERY DAY

At least one vegetable should be served raw every day. For practically all vegetables have some vitamin C in them which may be lost in cooking. You need this extra supply of vitamin C to supplement the daily citrus fruit or tomatoes. The raw vegetable contains other vitamins and also lends crispness and variety to the diet.

When you serve vegetables raw—preserve their food value by using them as soon as possible after you buy them or bring them in from your garden. Keep them cool as possible while they are waiting. Wash them just before you use them and never let them soak in water. Prepare chopped vegetable salads just before you serve them. When you chop vegetables finely and then let them wait for some time before you eat them, you lose a lot of vitamin C.

WHEN YOU COOK VEGETABLES

The biggest share of the vegetables you serve will be cooked. So learn to cook so you'll lose as little food value as possible.

Here are some of the important things to remember:

Leave vegetables in nature's covering as long as you can—even during cooking. If it isn't practical to cook the vegetable in its jacket, make peelings as thin as possible. Don't cook the vegetables any longer than you have to. For instance, don't stew vegetables when some other method is practical.

Have water boiling when you put vegetables in to cook, use as little water as possible, and cook rapidly. Use the cooking water served on the vegetables, or in soups, sauces, and gravies. When you pour out this pot liquor you are wasting the very food values for which you grew or bought the vegetables in the first place. Never use the vitamin B or vitamin C destroyer—soda—when you cook any vegetables.

Try not to stir vegetables while they are cooking. Never put them through a sieve while they are still hot. Air hastens the destruction of some vitamins.

Canned vegetables should also be cooked quickly as possible. And use all the juice that comes with the canned vegetable. Like pot liquor, is is full of unseen food values.

Cook frozen vegetables in the smallest possible amount of boiling water. Never let them thaw before you drop them in the cooking water. You lose vitamins if you do. Serve vegetables as quickly as possible once they are cooked.

All these rules are for getting the very most of the vitamins and minerals in vegetables. All in all, it's well to follow them closely. But don't be afraid to break a rule now and then if it makes for a better tasting dish. For if the family comes back for second helpings and thus gets extra food value—you're justified. Temper the rules with your own judgment and the tastes of your family.

Nazi Business Places Attacked

Brazilians Go On General Rampage Against German Stores

By VICTOR HAWKINS
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 13.—Brazilians, aroused by Nazi submarine sinking of Brazilian vessels, went on a general rampage in Rio De Janeiro Thursday, attacking German-owned business houses and smashing plate-glass windows of German-operated stores.

Indignation of the populace broke into violence just after President Getulio Vargas signed a decree penalizing Axis powers for acts of aggression against Brazil and Brazilian lives.

Police had their hands full attempting to quell disgruntled crowds who surged through the streets destroying German properties. In some districts it was understood the police were forced to fire blank cartridges to dispense the crowds.

Attack Business Places

After first attacking a German optical shop, the Casa Lohner on the Avenue Rio Branca, Rio De Janeiro's main street, citizens burst upon other Nazi controlled business places in quick succession.

The Casa Allema, a large German-owned department store, had its windows smashed before police could intervene.

The Hasenclever company and a large German drug store also suffered destructions at the hands of the milling crowds.

One group entered a large German book store, completely wrecking the establishment and destroying all German literature.

No bloodshed was reported immediately as armed police forces began a steady patrol of the streets.

Crowds thronged the Rio Branco avenue, angrily discussing the German submarine depredations against Brazil.

One Is Beaten

One German employe at the Casa Lohner optical shop was beaten by the crowd.

Brazilians were further aroused when it was established that the missing Brazilian steamer Cabedelo, long overdue, had been sunk by a torpedo.

Well informed sources revealed meanwhile that Rio De Janeiro police had confiscated 14 large packing cases lying in a dock warehouse. The cases were consigned to German firm and it was suspected they contained arms.

President Vargas signed the indemnity decree in a move to gain compensation for Brazilian property lost through Nazi war acts.

Oil Strike Transforms Sleepy Little Arkansas Village Into Boom Town

(International News Service)

PATMOS, Ark.—This little railroad stop, for years a tiny, sleepy village among the Arkansas hills, bids fair to become the areas' latest boom-town, rising to fame and fortune on the crest of a new discovery of the "black gold"—oil.

Patmos, although it has no post office of its own, is seeing steadily expanding activity daily as heavy trucks rumble, and huge railroad cars are pushed off to the now-crowded railroad siding, to unload ponderous oil drilling equipment.

The original population of the village—under 200 people—has been exceeded by the number of workers, both attached and drifting, who have poured in to follow the flow of the black gold.

Located not far from Hope, Ark., site of huge war-time ammunition plants, Patmos was aware of its rude awakening from the mode of a peaceful cross-roads village when the Barnsdall discovery well was brought in. Almost immediately, the area seemed to be swarmed with new-comers. Within a few weeks more than a dozen requests had been made to the Arkansas Oil and Gas Commission at El Dorado for authority to drill test wells.

A furore of leasing and buying currently is pouring thousands of dollars into the hands of Hempstead county folk, already enriched and prospering to a considerable degree because of the war-plants within the county.

Like every boom-town, Patmos is already experiencing a shortage of housing facilities, but this fact is not deterring any of the furious activity which accompanies the rush to cash in on a new discovery of oil, in much the same manner as did the discovery of gold in the year of '49.

Before they even consider housing for the men, and the few women accompanying them, the powers-that-be in this over-night metropolis are planning first on the construction of big supply houses, to protect the almost priceless equipment to be used in siphoning off the earths' precious mineral so vital to a nation at war.

The first encyclopedia written in English and with the articles alphabetically arranged, was a "Universal English Dictionary of Arts and Sciences," by John Harris, a London clergyman, published in 1704.

New Nazi Planes Are Inferior To British Fighters

(International News Service)

LONDON. — Although bombing raids on Britain have not been heavy in recent months, British fighter pilots have shot down several of Germany's new Dornier 217's.

Built on the same lines as the Dornier 172, it is a high winged monoplane with twin engines, twin fins and twin rudders.

When loaded it is reported to have a maximum speed of 290 mph. and a cruising speed of 248 mph.

Unloaded its top speed is roughly 320 mph.

With such a high speed it was obviously intended that it should be able to outfly opposing pursuit planes, but Britain's ace nite fighter—the Bristol Beaufighter—has proved a great success in combatting this latest menace.

ST. LOUIS —A young man, only four days after he was released from the City Workhouse, selected the wrong house to burglarize here recently. It was the home of Patrolman Christ J. Anton, rated as an expert marksman, who surprised the burglar and seriously wounded him as he attempted to escape.

Japs Began War 10 Years Ago, Using Drugs As Weapons

Nippon Soldiers Sell Narcotics In Conquered Territories, Aiming To Enslave The People

By FRANK NEILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 13—Engaged in the biggest spending program the world has ever known, you wouldn't expect your Treasury Department to have time for anything besides dealing out enough $$$$$ to pave a victory road for the United Nations.

But the department today has an engrossing and war-vital sideline—handling of various dopes.

We refer, of course, to narcotics.

By snake-hipping through a broken field of "censorable" data, we excavated enough dope on dope to prove that opium, cocaine and their sundry cousins are playing a big role in World War II.

Began 10 Years Ago

We discovered, for instance, that Japan's war on Western Civilization did not start at Pearl Harbor. It began 10 years ago, an offensive in which weapons were narcotic drugs.

And for just that many annums, Treasury law enforcement agencies have been waging war against the Jap's illicit opium traffic which long has been an instrument of Nipponese national policy.

So effective have been the "counterattacks" of U. S. agents that the Treasury vaults in Washington, in addition to cold cash on hand, hold huge stores of confiscated drugs.

Stored away in another section of the country—unspecified because it is a military secret—is enough raw opium to supply the nation's medical needs for nearly five years, Treasury files revealed.

Huge Stocks of Narcotics

Uncle Sam's Medical Corps has at its disposal other large supplies of "intercepted" narcotics—enough to last "for a five-year war"

More than 95 per cent of these stores resulted from seizures of Jap-inspired attempts to smuggle it into this country.

Largest narcotic nabbing last year was scored by the Bureau of Customs at Baltimore. They relieved two Filipino seaman of 774 ounces; then promptly arrested and sentenced them.

So alert were Treasury agents that prices demanded for narcotics in the illicit market reached fantastically high levels. Cases of thefts totalled 1,163, compared to 915 in 1940. But the amount of drugs stolen decreased 300 ounces.

War Cuts Smuggling

While the war has cut down on Japanese smuggling into the U. S., ont particular gang of traffickers alone smuggled enough heroin into the country in 1941 to supply 10,000 addicts for a year. Agents recovered practically all of it. That heroin now rests next to a vault full of $500 bills.

Japanese occupational armies, according to confidential Treasury reports, always are entrusted to sell narcotics to enslave and corrupt conquered people.

That gag, however, has boomeranged. The japs themselves have become addicts in "hundreds of cases," authentic sources say.

Which adds up correctly, too: Dope for dopes.

Youth Is Slain When He Ignores Order To Halt

Discovered Backing Out Of Drugstore With Drawn Gun In Hand

(International News Service)

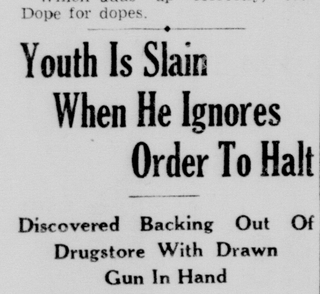

MALDEN, Mass. March 13.—Louis B. Grandison, 18-year-old Boston college freshman and son of a prominent Somerville, Mass., physician, was shot to death today when he ignored a command to halt as he backed with drawn gun from a neighborhood drugstore he had robbed of $13.

Seeing the youth backing from the drugstore with drawn gun, a police detective off duty ordered him to drop the weapon. Instead, the detective stated, the youth turned the pistol in his direction but a shot from the officer's gun dropped the model student before he could fire.

Young Grandison died without explaining his actions and his grieved father could not reveal what might have prompted the youth to turn to a career of crime.

The game of handball originated in Ireland about 1,000 years ago. It is considered one of the national games of that country, but is played by more men in American than anywhere else in the world.

HER WEEKLY PLEASURE
(International News Service)

BOSTON.—A policeman noticed a 13 year old girl stop at a fire alarm box, reach up for the hook and then walk away. Escorted to the police station, the girl admitted she had done the same thing every Friday night for the last two months when her parents sent her out on errands. "I like the noise the wagons make," she explained.

Do not remove the thin, paper-like covering or "fell" on a roast of lamb. Contrary to general opinion, it in no way affects the flavor of the meat, but rather, helps the roast keep its shape and cook faster.

Japanese Pilots Are No Supermen Say U. S. Fighters

(Editor's Note—Pat Robinson has talked to the fighting pilots of the United Nations in the southwest Pacific and finds them completely unimpressed by their Japanese adversaries. Here is a first hand, dramatic account of what the flyers of the United Nations are accomplishing against tremendous odds.)

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC, March 13.—The Japs are no supermen to the United Nations pilots in this area who daily are raising hell with them, bombing and strafing Japanese transports in the most active areas.

These pilots are staging hair-raising feats against terrific odds, but they regard them as a matter of course.

To quote them, the Japs never attack unless the odds are greatly in their favor.

"Their zeros like to fly at 30,000 feet and swoop down on a lone bomber," one of them said.

Some Are Accurate

"They fly in groups of nine. Some of their bombers are accurate, while others couldn't hit a football field from 100 feet.

"Our bombers have no fear of Japanese anti-aircraft, which is extremely inaccurate compared to ours."

The identities of these pilots must remain secret for the present, but I can reveal one or two stories.

One United Nations pilot recently was attacked by eighteen Jap Zeroes. His plane was riddled by 1,000 bullets but he managed to bring it back across 400 miles of openwater and get it down safely.

All the members of his crew were wounded except himself, yet they managed to bring down five attacking planes.

The pilot put it this way:

"It was tough going for a time but we managed to give them hell. It reminded me of a fullback smashing through the line."

A colonel told me that in recent fighting through the Far East his command had probably destroyed 100 Jap Zeroes and bomberss in dog fights, and sank a dozen ships.

Sank Five Transports

Recently six of his bombers attacked nine Jap ships and sank five of them, most of which were packed to the gunwhales with Japanese troops.

Another pilot told a strange story of the wily tactics used by the enemy.

He said that he was surprised one day during a flight to hear a ground crew requesting his position by radio. He refused to give it. Later he discovered that the Japs had managed to uncover his code and wave-length and radioed him in perfect English.

The next time such a question was asked, the United Nations pilots set a trap. They gave a prearranged position and when the Jap planes appeared, the United Nations pilots swooped down on them.

That was the end of the Japs.

AUTO WINDSHIELD WIPER

The automobile windshield wiper was invented by Sied Back, an American born Chinese of Portland, Ore. He gave the invention away as he already had a million dollars or more and didn't want to be bothered with any more money.

Riddle Of Russian Front Holds Future Of War

By FIELD MARSHAL LORD IRONSIDE

Written Expressly for International News Service.

LONDON, March 13.—The future of the war lies in the riddle of the Russian front.

The Germans call their present mode of fighting "hedge hog" fighting, leaving behind them numerous 'spiky animals' in strong positions difficult to get at because of their spikes.

There is nothing new in this except the name. The Russians left Leningrad and Sevastopol as pivots to maneuver a field army. But unless such pivots can hold out until the field army is able to use them they are mere traps for the troops left in them.

Leningrad and Sevastopol have not yet fulfilled their purpose. We left Tobruk behind in north Africa and it amply fulfilled its purpose. The Maginot line in France failed because the French army was defeated and could not use it as a pivot.

How are these spiky armies of the Germans faring?

The most famous one is on the Smolensk-Vyazma salient. It has very nearly been unrolled and killed. It jutted 150 miles from Moscow with one single road and railroad supplying it. The Russians are within 20 miles of this road at a point 70 miles behind its head.

The German defenses are very strong despite the weather. Fighting there has been the fiercest of the war. It reminds one of the British defense of the Ypres salient in the last war when daily defense casualties were the heaviest.

Here it is a matter of hard hammering against the front and sides of the salient with air bombardmens of narrow lines of communications. So heavy has this bombardment been that the Germans have been obliged to use air transports to supply reinforcements.

At Staraya Russa the "hedge hog" has been unrolled and some of its innards have been bitten out. At Orel and Kharkov they are being pulled about.

How many of these hedge hogs can be killed before the German field army advances? That is the ridde.

Undoubtedly the Germans have built or are building others behind the front ones. But troops are being used up at such a great rate to hold the line. Panzer troops, however, and the Luftwaffe are only partially engaged.

German infantry and artillery are acting the part of the true "enfants perdus" to allow of a field army being made ready for the spring.

The Russians are using few panzer troops. The battle of panzers is to come in the spring when the snow and mud have gone, perhaps toward the end of April. Hitler may have an imposing amount of material collected but so will the Russians. Hitler's weakness will be in manpower.

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER

INS Sports Editor

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 13—Announcement today that Manager Leon Durocher of the Brooklyn Baseball Club, Inc., Ltd., had suspended pitcher Johnny Allen and was keeping an eye on some of the other Dodgers means only one thing, viz: That Manager Durocher and the Dodgers are rapidly rounding into shape for the National League pennant race. Mr. Durocher suspends somebody every spring by way of getting himself and his club into the pink of condition for the battles to come.

Sometimes he suspends them for staying over-weight, sometimes the reason is laziness, other times he catches somebody climbing down the drain pipe to elude Mr. Durocher's elevator guards for a spot of fun of an evening. Last season it was an adagio dancer, wasn't it.

Remember Mungo

Perhaps you will recall that Van Lingle Mungo was up to his large South Carolina ears in a pitching comeback when suddenly he was surrounded by and made a captive of a Havana dance ensemble. Somewhere in the middle of all this was an adagio dancer, or a fan dancer, or a ballet dancer and the next thing he or anybody knew Manager Durocher had become highly incensed and plastered certain punishment on him.

That's the way it goes with the Dodgers year after year, whether they are winning pennants or not.

Currently it is Johnny Allen, the venerable escapist of the American League. He did pretty well for the Dodgers in the tough stretches of last season, but has kicked over the traces of late, according to Mr. Durocher.

Allen Is Through

Johnny Allen is a hard, hard man. He used to be a Yankee himself once, then was shipped to the Cleveland Indians because of temperament, thence to the St. Louis Browns, thence finally wound up with the Dodgers. He appeared in 11 games last season and won three of them against no defeats, a memorable contribution to the Dodgers' victory being one of his last season wins.

Mr. Durocher, however, is not concerned with past performances, inasmuch as his job depends upon what he does in the future, and the result is Johnny Allen in the dog-house.

Reports on Allen's difficulty are meager, except that Mr. Durocher avers and alleges that his Pitcher Allen ignored warnings concerning conduct of several of the Dodgers.

Suspended Indefinitely

Mr. Durocher is quoted as follows:

"I have suspended Johnny Allen indefinitely for violation of training rules in Havana. A series of incidents left me no alternative. I warned the players several times that if they didn't behave I would catch them myself and they would be punished.

"I have reprimanded at least three other players for conduct unbecoming Dodgers and each one of them will have to make satisfactory explanations to me."

What I would like to know is this: What is "conduct unbecoming a Dodger?" I don't get it. I always thought that Dodgers were supposed to slide down the drain pipe at Havana, fight in the hotel room wherever they happen to be and raise merry thunder generally.

It's getting so a guy can't have any fun at all and whipping a fleet of cab-drivers or local policemen is regarded as a misdemeanor since the Dodgers won the pennant.

Urge Speed On Increase In Debt Limit For Nation

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Urging speedy passage of the house-approved bill increasing the debt limitation from $65,000,000,000 to $125,000,000,000, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau today warned the senate finance committee that the government will be unable to obtain funds after April 1 unless the measure is adopted by that date.

Frankly admitting that the task of financing the war was a staggering one, Morgenthau declared, however, that "we are strong enough to bear it, and we know that it will be worth it in the end."

Morgenthau also proposed that the postal savings system be transferred to the treasury with savings stamps becoming a public debt obligation. The treasury secretary estimated that the public debt would reach $110,400,000,000 on June 30, 1943.

WAGE CONTROL BEING STUDIED

Possibility As Means Of Preventing Inflation Is Being Considered By President

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The possibility of wage control as a means of preventing inflation is under study by the administration, President Roosevelt stated today.

At his press conference, the chief executive declined to discuss the problem in detail, because it was under study. He said that in some ways progress is being made in the control of inflation, but in other ways it is not.

A correspondent asked the president wether he had participated in some conversations at the White House described by Mrs. Roosevelt in her daily newspaper column in which she advocated a ceiling on wages. The president said he had not, but that the problems described by the first lady were another factor in the whole broad picture.

Likewise, he stated that the Canadian system of wage control was being studied as another factor of the problem, but he was not prepared to say whether the system would be applicable to the United States.

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 13.—Gov. Arthur H. James conferred with Major A. L. Tynes of the U. S. Surgeon General's office today concerning the possibility of turning over the unopened Butler sanatorium to the government for use as a federal hospital.

Major Tynes, who inspected the institution yesterday, told newspapermen he considered the sanatorium "A very fine plant although not as large as we desire." With certain additions and alterations, he adde, it could fit the government's requirements.

Governor James declined to comment on their conference and Major Tynes said he would return for another discussion.

FBI Agent Killed In Gun Battle In Abingdon, Virginia

Another Special Agent Seriously Wounded, Battle Occurs Today

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 13 — The Federal Bureau of Investigation announced today that Special Agent Hubert J. Tracey, 28, of New York City, had been killed, and Agent Charles L. Tignor, 29, of Harlan, Ky., seriously wounded in a gun fight with two army deserters on the main street of Abingdon, Va., near the Virgina-Tennessee state line.

The gun battle occurred early this morning, according to the FBI, when the G-men attempted to arrest the soldiers after they had kidnaped a taxi driver near Fort Oglethorp, Ga., forcing him to drive them to Abingdon.

The soldiers, identified by the FBI as Privates James Testermon, 23, and Charles J. Lovett, 21, escaped on foot in a hail of bullets after the shooting. A posse of state police, G-men and local officers immediately launched a search in the mountainous regions near the scene of the crime.

U. S. SUBMARINES INCREASE ATTACKS ON JAP SHIPPING

American undersea craft were credited with sinking one destroyer leader and a large tanker, and scoring hits on an aircraft carrier and three cruisers.

A recaptiulation of Japanese ship losses since the start of the Pacific war indicated that American subs have accounted for approximately 25 per cent of all the enemy vessels sunk or damaged by United States army and navy forces.

To date, at least 142 Jap vessels have been sunk or damaged by the army and navy, and of that total the undersea craft are credited with sinking at least 26 ships of all types, and scoring torpedo hits on about a dozen others.

Raid In Jap Waters

The raid on shipping in Nipponese waters was the second of the war. On Jan. 17, an undersea warship destroyed three enemy merchant ships off Tokyo bay.

With valuable bases in the Philippines and the southwest Pacific lost temporarily to the United Nations, it appears obvious that the United States will have to depend on long-range submarines to carry the war to the enemy, pending an all-out offensive.

Emphasis placed by the navy on the value of work done by the American underwater fleet was indicated two weeks ago when medals were awarded to seven sub commanders for "meritorius" service.

The day after the awards were announced, the navy reported that its subs had scored hits on two enemy transports and three unidentified craft in the far Pacific.

Bombers Hit Japs

Meanwhile, in the Australian war theater American army bomber pilots still are believed to be striking at Nipponese invasion armadas in the New Guinea area. In the first official report from that area, U. S. bombers were credited with hits on seven enemy vessels.

Surface units of the American fleet also are believed to be active, although no official announcement has been about them since the recent brush with Jap bombers west of the Gilbert Islands.

Axis sources, however, recently have broadcast reports of "unsuccessful" raids by American naval craft on scattered Japanese islands, including one group less than 1,000 miles from Japan.

The fact that the raids have not been confirmed in Washington is no indication, however, they were not made. In the past the navy has withheld such news until the warships returned to safe ports.

Lull Is Mystery

In connection with the Philippine conflict, army spokesmen appeared at a loss to explain the long lull in enemy operations since the successful counter-attacks reported by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces.

Lack of Jap aerial activity on Bataan indicated, however, that the Nipponese are awaiting release of aircraft from other war theaters before again attempting to dislodge MacArthur.

Despite a 10-1 numerical superiority over MacArthur's army, Japanese land units have shown no inclination recently to attack in force, apparently because of heavy losses suffered in previous thrusts.

On the home front the navy disclosed that a "medium sized" American tanker has been torpedoed in the Caribbean area. This latest attack brings to 74 the unofficial total of United Nations and neutral nation vessels that have been torpedoed or shelled in western Atlantic waters since January. Of this number 17 have been attacked in Caribbean waters.

SOVIET TROOPS PIERCE GERMAN DEFENSE LINES

latest break-throughs occurred, with artillery supporting the charging red army infantry.

The agency added a number of German artillery batteries have been silenced in several sectors.

Immediate objectives of the Russians were believed to be the capture of Kharkav, where the Nazis have been under heavy pressure for many weeks, and the smashing of German preparations for a counter-drive in the south.

Elsewhere on the front the Soviets were reported surging forward, particularly in the Staraya Russa area, where the encircled 16th German army was steadily being mowed down.

90 Divisions In Drive

(The Vichy radio said that with 90 Russian divisions participating in the southern offensive, Marshal Semyon Timoshenko has launched the most important red army attack of the Russian campaign. Vichy added that the German radio had admitted a Russian break-through north of Orel.)

The midnight communique issued by the Russian high command specified no place names but said:

"Breaking Fascist resistance the Soviet forces continued to advance and occupied several inhabited localities in certain sectors. The enemy sustained heavy losses in equipment and manpower.

"On March 11 eight German and four Russian aircraft were destroyed."

(London heard Berlin radio reports that an "unending stream of Russian reinforcements and materiel was pouring into the line on the central (Smolensk) front. Berlin also said that many red army divisions were being thrown into the northern wing of the Donetz basin front, supported by tanks and artillery.)

Division Wiped Out

Moscow radio said that the seasoned 290th German infantry division, which fought in several western European campaigns before going to the Russian front, was "practically wiped out".

Russian reports said that on one unidentified sector red army troops drove through Nazi positions with huge sledges, powered by airplane motors. The Russians broke thru the Nazi lines so quickly that great panic resulted among the Germans, these reports stated.

(Dispatches from Stockholm said that on the southern Donetz front Marshal Timoshenko's army of 1,250,000 men pierced additional Nazi strong points and occupied two important junctions, killing at least 2,000 Germans.

(These accounts said Nazi reinforcements who had been held back for the spring offensive were rushed into the battle but were beaten off in a two-day fight.

(On the Staraya Russa sector, said Stockholm, the 16th German army shows signs of cracking up and is constantly compelled to withdraw toward the center of the Russian encircling ring.

(Further Russian advances were reported on the Smolensk front, where the reds aim to roll up the entire Nazi army standing between Smolensk and Vyazma.

(Several Russian divisions were reported to have swooped through the forests south of the Valdai mountain range and to have reached the village of Nikitinka, which the Germans were reported trying to defend after their advance units retreated.

(Heavy fighting also was reported in the Crimea.)

JAPANESE PUSH GIVEN 20 YEARS IN U. S. PRISON

engage in air combat, but the trigger fingers of the Aussie gunners are itching.

Terrific Punishment

According to reports reaching Sydney, the terrific punishment meted out to the Japanese at their New Guinea beachheads and at Rabaul on New Britain island have forced them to postpone plans for an immediate, large-scale attack on the commonwealth itself.

For the time being the Japs will have to reassemble and reinforce their bomb-blasted invasion fleets—and they will have to do this under a continuing rain of bombs from American and Australian planes.

The estimate that 12 enemy ships have been knocked out of action is regarded as conservative. Some unofficial reports put the toll considerably higher. A number of warships are regarded as certain to have been damaged and rendered temporarily unusable in addition to the wrecked Jap troop carriers and auxiliary vessels.

Extent of the victory gained by the United Nations airmen caused the Sydney Herald to comment that so far the advance remains definitely with the forces defending the commonwealth.

While the planes carried the fight to the invasion forces, guerilla fighters left behind on the northeast New Guinea coast, where the Japs established beachheads at Salamaua and Lae, continued to battle the enemy land forces. The guerillas harassed the Japs from the island jungles and sniped at them from fields near the enemy bases.

By RALPH JORDAN

Melbourne, March 13.—Bogged down in their initial effort to seize Port Moresby, New Guinea, as a base for an assault against Australia and pounded mercilessly by American and Australian fliers, Japan's soldiers of aggression searched for a new avenue of attack today.

Enemy fleet movements were reported in the solomon Islands far to the east of New Guinea, occupation of which would afford a bridgehead for assaults against the eastern coast of Australia in which Brisbane and Sydney are located.

At the same time, the R. A. A. F. again heavily attacked the Japanese-held airdrome at Gasmata on the Island of New Britain.

An Australian air force communique announcing that Japanese naval units had been sighted three days ago off Kesu Buka in the solomons did not say what action if any has taken against them.

On the basis of performances carried out in New Guinea, where at least 13 and perhaps a score of Japanese troop transports and warships have been burnt and blasted by accurate Australian and American bombers, it was taken for granted that the invaders will not be left unmolested.

Feeling grew in many circles that the Japanese moves thus far may all have been in the nature of feints. Large forces of enemy troops have been wiped out in the various offensive actions carried out against New Guinea and elsewhere, but the Japanese have shown a definite disposition to lose large numbers of men in any gamble that may prove productive elsewhere.

Melbourne remained fully prepared for any eventuality, together with the other major cities of Australia. The 35-minute air raid test during the daylight hours here yesterday was pronounced a complete success.

CONGRESSIONAL MAIL REVEALS TAXPAYERS FAVOR U. S. SALES TAX

that the imposts due March 16 are triple or even quadruple what they were a year ago.

On top of this, these payers now know that the treasury plans to double these already stiffly increased levies a year hence. All of this, sales tax advocates say, will lead to much letter writing to congressmen, pleading for some other form of taxation—and about the only other form yet untapped is a levy on retail purchases.

This is an election year, and congressional ears are glued to the ground. If the people express a desire for a sales tax, that is probably what they will get, most members agree.

There is, too, the case of the congressman himself—as pointed out by one. Married members now pay about $1,000 out of their $10,000 salaries in income taxes, while single members are hit for some $1,500.

Congressmen Feel Effects

Congressmen are not allowed to deduct campaign expenses in computing income taxes, and many members feel that if these levies are doubled they will be unable to meet those and other expenses.

While it is not contended that the plight of the legislator himself will influence his vote to any great extent, some believe that other things being equal, it might be taken into consideration.

While the treasury has stoutly opposed a sales tax in its new $7,610,000,000 revenue bill, many witnesses who have appeared before the tax-writing House ways and means committee have gone on record in favor of this type of levy.

J. Cheever Cowdin, speaking for the National Association of Manufacturers, urged a straight 8 per cent tax on retail sales or a combined 4 per cent manufacturers levy, plus a 4 per cent retail tax, either one to raise more than $4,000,000,000.

Cowdin, also urged milder corporate and personal income tax increases than those proposed by the treasury, was recalled by the committee today for detailed questioning about his suggestion.

HOCUS POCUS, KIWANIS SHOW, PLEASES CROWD

Stooges, portrayed by Dudley Arnold, Howard Warnock, and Presley Jones, which kept the audience in an uproar.

Voodoo Fantasy

With Lena Mae McConnell as the soloist, Joyce Alexander as ritual dancer, Dorothy Conrad as Princess, and John Duda and Wendell Morrison as slaves, a Voodoo fantasy followed. Then in again were the stooges, followed by the number, Hocus Pocus Rhythm, with Bertha Taylor as soloist and Norma Fishburn doing a tap number.

There was some more prestigitation by Burgette, followed by the stooges, who got tangled up in their own ropes, then a lovelty number, "In the Park," where boys met girls and performed a little magic of their own.

Next was a Chinese Pagoda scene, with Rose Mary Place doing the dancing, and the first part was concluded with the Ballad for Americans by the Penn Power Male Chorus, which proved one of the big hits of the show. Some splendid pantomime with special scenery accompanied the number, the prologue being given by Numa Vidal, with Sam McCleary as solist, and Mrs. Jay L. Reed as organist. The number was directed by Robert Duff, musical director of the Senior high school.

Second Part

The second part of the program consisted of the Magical Ministrels, with Walter Preston as Master of Ceremonies, and Jack Jones, Earl Hammond, Presley Jones, Howard Warnock, Cecil Potter and Wendell Morrison, as the end men, etc.

Musical numbers presented included, "Hi, Neighbor," the Tambo overture, "21 Dollars a Day," by Earl Hammond; "Modern Design," by Howard Warnock;; seance and dance of the skeletons, by Burgette; "Time Was," by James Bowman, with Louise Shaffer giving the whistling chorus; "Rose O'Day," by Jack Jones; "Deep in the Heart of Texas," by Wendell Morrison.

The grand finale was presented by the high school band, with Christine Giancotti, national champion baton twirler, giving her usual fine production.

Bernard Chill, no mean magician in his own right, challenged Burgette to a test of magic, and was acclaimed the winner over the show's star, performing several difficult feats of magic in a clever and finished manner.

It is impossible to go into extensive detail about the whole production, but it is well worth attending, and the Kiwanis show committee is making preparations for a crowded house again tonight.

Announcement was made today by Director Wayne Lemmon that there will be no large attendance of children, as was the case last night, when the second balcony was well filled with vociferous youngsters, who loudly cheered their favorites throughout the performance.

O. P. A. Seeks To Delay Increase In Freight Rates

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Moving to combat inflation, the Office of Price Administration today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to postpone from March 18 to April 15 the date on which a recently authorized six per cent railroad freight increase goes into effect.

The OPA explained that it sought to exclude from the ICC order basic commodities in order to prevent a sharp increase in price ceilings.

"The freight increase must not be permitted to become effective even for a short while," the OPA said pending a conference with a railroad committee to stabilize prices.

"An increase of six per cent in transportation costs via carriers on some commodities would necessitate immediate upward revision of price ceilings," the OPA told the commission.

Prospective heirs should at least pretend to be self-reliant. Mere waiting is too much like buzzards on the desert.

Assails Government's Lack Of Knowledge Of Rubber Situation

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 13—Charging that the government's lack of knowledge concerning available rubber sources is "incomprehensible", Elliot E. Simpson, director of the Drexsage Rubber Co., New York, today issued a statement asserting that hundreds of thousands of tons of various types of rubber can be obtained quickly in Latin America and Africa.

Simpson's statement also claimed that a Florida planter has discovered a secret process for developing hybrid hevea rubber which may eventually make the United States entirely self-sufficient in that vital product.

"The Mexican government is now seeking to obtain the secret process for developing this hybrid hevea rubber," Simpson said. "The American planter, J. Andrew Tatro of Tampa, Fla., has not accepted the Mexican government's offer because he wants his discovery to be developed 'under the American flag'.

"His secret process was tested by the Goodyear Plantation Co., of Akron, O., in April, 1940. The test proved that this man's hybrid hevea rubber is as good as the standard grade crude rubber.

"I can be produced for three cents per pound at a yield of 800 pounds per acre. We paid the British 13 cents per pound for rubber before the outbreak of the Pacific war, and we have now agreed to pay Brazil 39 cents per pound. Yet here we have an American who says he can produce rubber for three cents per pound and have the plant yielding in five months.

"The American government apparently has never heard of this man or his rubber plant. Its time somebody in the government started learning about rubber.

"A survey of the sources of rubber which are available to the United States at present shows conclusively that the supply is ample to meet the civilian as well as the defense needs for the duration of the war.

"There is absoluteiy no reason why the American people should be deprived of the use of their motor cars because of any rubber shortage. There is no reason for the government hysteria over the alleged lack of rubber.

Large Supplies Available

"Not only are there large supplies of crude rubber available in Central and South America, but there are other types of rubber which can be made available quickly and which is good enough to meet both civilian and defense needs.

"Mr. Henderson (federal price administrator) in his recent statement on the rubber shortage, warned the American people against holding out any hope of getting substantial amounts of rubber in the near future from...the guayule plant'. Somebody misled the poor man. There are millions of acres of guayule now available in Mexico.

"One Mexican land owner in the state of San Louis Potosi has 120,000 acres of wild guayule that he is trying to lease for five cents an acre. He has two processing plants already established on the land, yet he cannot find anyone who is interested.

"Guayule rubber can be made into just as good a product as hevea (the ordinary crude) rubber. The India Rubber World—official rubber publication—estimates guayule can be processed from the shrub to the bale in two days.

"Among the Latin American nations in which various types of rubber are now available in large quantities are Brazil, Peru, Bolivia, Colombia, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Honduras, Veneuela, Panama and Mexico.

"Some years ago Bolivia offered to land rubber in New York for seven cents per pound. The offer was rejected. Twenty years ago, Nicaragua shipped us large quantities of rubber. That was before the British and the Dutch had a world monopoly on rubber.

"The apparent lack of knowledge of the government concerning available sources of rubber is incomprehensible. One cannot help but wonder whether it is ignorance or a deliberate attempt to perpetuate the British and Dutch rubber monopolies after the war."

News Briefs From City Hall

Obviously the future is bound to be somewhat uncertain for that type of person who begs money with which to overcrowd his stomach with intoxicating liquor. For instance, last night police scoured the city and into their net fell two persons.

One of them gave the name of John Scully, Butler. He was accused of drunkenness and suspicion. In his possession was found many pair of hosiery and several fountain pens.

Scully informed His Honor in police court today he had purchased the hosiery and pens from a "fellow he had met." However, Mayor Charles B. Mayne and Police Chief W. G. McMullen did not believe him.

Detective J. G. Moore declared that an examination of the hosiery showed that they carried the label of a Butler store. Scully was held for investigation, in addition to being fined $25.00.

PSUEDO "F. B. I. MAN"

The other man placed under arrest because he reportedly told a sailor he was an "F.B.I. Man." Today he told Mayor C.B.M. that he was drunk last night and had made an error.

The man gave the name of Vincent Hinish and address as Pittsburgh district. He was very penitent. However, Mayor Mayne imposed a fine of $25.00 with the alternative of going to jail for 30 days.

JUST LIKE "NUMBERS"

In traffic court, Mayor Charles B. Mayne remarked that the parking meters, business was like the numbers: "You pay when caught." Several who parked their cars too long for five cents were required to pay a fine of $1.00.

It also developed that some truck drivers have been parking trucks in meter "stalls" without going through the formality of depositing a nickle in the meters.

His Honor informed the truck drivers they must drive to a place where there is a yellow line if they desire to park and deliver packages.

However, any driver, truck or passenger car, who is caught parking in a bus stop will be fined, the mayor said.

Army Is Ready To Combat Flood Menace In West

(International News Service)

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—The U. S. army may have another enemy this spring besides fighting the Axis warriors. Their other foe will be "Old Winter", who usually uncorks a series of disastrous floods in New Mexico. And the army will be ready for the battle at home.

Lieut. Col. Lyle Rosenburg, chief of the U. S. army engineers in New Mexico, announced today that his corps is prepared to take steps to combat any flood imperiling lives.

Government resources and personnel will be available in the middle Rio Grande watershed, as well as in the Pecos valley—where Roswell and Carlsbad were visited by life-taking floods last year—and the Mimbres, said Col. Rosenburg. He disclosed, however, that the middle Rio Grande valley may have to wait up to 18 months for construction of specific flood projects.

LONDON—The W.A.A.F. (Woman's Auxiliary Air Force) is just two and one-half years old, and its numbers are several times the strength of its predecessors, the W.R.A.F. (Woman's Royal Air Force) of the last war.

And—so far—every woman has volunteered.

From the few jobs done by women when the service was first inaugurated in June 1939, W. A. A. F.'s are now employed in 51 different trades including armorers and electricians as well as cooks and domestic workers.

Many W.A.A.F.'s have been decorated and mentioned in despatches.

Swiss Will Hold Unique Ceremony Blessing Horses

(International News Service)

BERNE, Switzerland—Every year, on April 23, which is the day of St. George, the inhabitants of the quaint village of Turtmann, in the Valais, Switzerland, bring their horses, donkeys and mules to the entrance of their parish church to have the animals solemnly blessed by the priest.

St. George is the patron saint of domestic beasts in that part of the country and peasants will gladly interrupt their work on the fields to take their four-legged helpers to the scene of blessing. Some 80 animals were brought to last year's ceremonies.

Blessing the horses is also an important rite in the canton of Ticino. In this instance it is St. Anthony who is revered as patron saint of horses, donkeys and mules on January 17. After holy mass has been celebrated in the church, the priest will step outside and give his blessing to the waiting animals.

At Bellinzona, capital of the canton, some 30—40 horses were blessed last year; at Locarno and in other communities the number varied, according to the size of the locality

The animals are specially groomed and adorned for the occasion. Entire families witness the ceremonies and dogs are very often brought along to also receive a blessing.

British Ministry Has Problem In Vitamin Foods

(International News Service)

LONDON—Biggest headache to Britain's ministry of food is to give vitamins to the public in an interesting form, and not as an uninteresting medicine.

At the ministry headquarters, there is a research kitchen, staffed by experts who every day try many recipes so as to discover the best ways of providing health promoting dishes

Into this kitchen, stream hundreds of ideas and suggestions from food advice centers, the general public and food cranks.

The ministry has increased the vitaminization of margarine because that is the easiest way of supplying vitamins A and D which protect against infection and build bones and teeth.

The introduction of B-1 into flour and the sponsoring of wheatmeal bread ensure that the public gets sufficient of the vitamin known as the prime energizer.

Green vegetables are the best providers of the C vitamin which protects against scurvy.

SOLDIERS LIKE SODA POP.

CAMP EDWARDS, Mass.—Whether it's hot or cold, soda pop is a favorite drink of soldiers at this Camp Cod army post. On one of the coldest days of the Winter, the men gulped down 17,500 bottles of soft drinks.

OLD BELL IS USED.

SILVERTON, Ore.—Silverton residents depend on the old town bell for an air raid alarm. "Old Faithful," formerly used for curfew and fire alarms, was brought back to service when residents complained they could not hear a "new fangled" warning signal.

ARMY IN JUNK BUSINESS.

CAMP SHELBY, Miss.—The camp quartermaster's salvage office is in the junk business to the tune of about $8,000,000 a year, which goes to the U. S. Treasury. Its sales consist of garbage, burlap bags, old radio sets, waste paper, rubber shoes, blankets and other equipment beyond repair.

Declares Dutch Will Fight On

Lieut. Gov. General Of Netherland East Indies Broadcasts To U. S.

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Marc 13.—Dr. H. J. Van Mook, lieutenant-governor general of the Netherlands East Indies, broadcast to the United States over the Australian radio Thursday and said "Our country may be in the hands of the enemy, but our people will carry on, in the air, on the sea, and finally on our own soil," according to CBS.

Van Mook said that after fighting in the air and on the sea in the areas north of Java "we went all-out to fend off the last attack and managed to hold it back for days.

"But when the Japanese landed on the north coast, and started to blockade our last port in the south," he added, "there was little left for our side in the air and on the sea. I need not tell the story of those last harrowing days in Java. . . .

"In those days it was decided that even if the Netherlands Indies should be temporarily occupied, the fight would be carried on with all the means and forces, Dutch and Indonesian, available in the world.

"I was both honored and depressed when the governor general asked me to leave the country and put myself at the disposal of the Netherlands government for this purpose—Honored because it is a great thing to be able to carry on—Depressed because I had to leave my country under such awful circumstances.

"The night when we took off, in the last remaining transport planes, from the only landing stretch which the Japanese had not yet discovered, and the fall of Bandoeng had become a matter of hours, will remain a bad memory all my life. Our country may be in the hands of the enemy, but our people will carry on, in the air, on the sea and finally on our own soil.

"We are in the front line now. We want to stay there with whatever we have. The series of destruction and retreat, of too little and too late must end. The time of a firm and unmovable stand must come; the time of advance and attack should be near."

Nazi U-boat Men In Caribbean May Be 'Old Friends'

(International News Service)

ARUBA, N.W.I., March 13—Shipping men here believe they have old acquaintances just outside the reef and below the surface of the sea, abroad the Nazi submarine which have been stalking this island for a fortnight to attack shipping and shell the refineries.

Before the war numerous German tankers called here frequently and were fully acquainted with local waters and reefs.

The ease with which the Nazis have been able to come inshore during the darkness has given rise to the belief sailors on those Nazi tankers are now aboard the attacking submarines.

"Even though they are not exactly friends," said a salty survivor of a torpedo attack, "I'd be happy to have them come ashore."

British War Relief Units Are Urged To Continue Activities

Lawrence County Organization Seeks Funds To Finance Seed Donation

Acting upon President Roosevelt's advice to the British War Relief society that their war relief efforts should not be diminished, now that U. S. forces are now engaged in the conflict, the Lawrence county unit BWRS is continuing its efforts in all phases, with but slight curtailment in the knitting group due to the supplies of yarn becoming harder to procure.

The sewing group, however, meeting each Monday in the Neshannock post VFW rooms, is kept busy making garments for the many evacuee children from those countries now in the hands of Axis powers, and who are now being cared for by allied war relief. Each Wednesday evening at the Y. W. C. A. another group meets to engage in similar work.

At the present time a campaign is being sponsored by the local unit for donations of parcels of seeds, purchased by the society by dollar donations. By growing their own vegetable supplies valuable cargo space in ships will be released for other vital war supplies. Their battle for food in Great Britain is a major problem at the present time and the existing campaign must necessarily be a short one in order that seed supplies may be received throughout Great Britain for their spring planting. Each package will bear a card listing the donor's name and address and no doubt many of the recipients of such parcels of seeds will write back expressing their own appreciation of American interest and support.

On Monday evening, March 16, at 8 o'clock in the guild room of the Trinity Episcopal church, the public is invited to see and hear sound movies outlining this actual battle for food in addition to movies of Australian locations now in the center of the war activities. Also an "on the job" movie of a Y. M. C. A. tea wagon taken during a London "blitz" attack will be available. This movie is introduced by a talk by Wendell Willkie and his own reactions after visiting bombed out areas there. Contributions towards the seed campaign, or towards wool supplies may be forwarded to the Lawrence county unit headquarters of the B. W. R. S. at room 307, L. S. & T. building, New Castle Pa.

Ancient Geography Presented To Local Historical Society

Attorney Charles H. Young, president of the Lawrence County Historical society, has received an ancient geography which is partially a history also, from Mrs. C. M. Grace, of East Washington street. The geography was published in 1794, in Boston, Mass., and for many years was the property of an uncle and aunt of Mrs. Grace, in West Middlesex.

A description of each state is given with the counties shown. Pennsylvania then had 21 counties and a total population of less than 500,000. The book will be added to the society's collection of historical treasure.

Crack Down On Liquor Industry

(International News Service)

DENVER, March 13.—The anti-trust division of the U. S. Department of Justice on Thursday cracked down on leaders of the nation's liquor industry.

At the request of the anti-trust staff of prosecutors, a federal grand jury returned an indictment against 19 major distilling companies in the United States, eight wholesale liquor dealers, two associations and 54 individuals, including officials of the distilleries, wholesalers and retail liquor dealers and officers of the associations indicted.

The indictment, in two counts, charged conspiracies to raise fix, and maintain the wholesale and retail prices of alcoholic beverages shipped into Colorado from producers located outside the state.

DON'T BE MATCH MAKER

Don't try to make every piece in the room match. A modern coffee table of light mahogany is perfectly safe in an Eighteenth century living room with mahogany furniture of traditional finish. In fact, one or two light pieces of furniture give new life to a dark living room ensemble.

CATCHING UP ON KNITTING

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA — Women are noted for starting to knit socks and sweaters and then forgetting them, but here's what appears to be a new record in that line: A woman came into Red Cross headquarters and asked for enough yarn to finish a woolen sock and to begin its mate. "When did you start the sock?" a worker asked. "It was during the First World War," the woman answered.

(International News Service)

ITHACA.—Instruction in infantry at the Cornell ROTC will be discontinued in May, and in the meantime the ordnance unit is to be increased in size, Col. Clinton I. McClure, commandant, announced today. The pressing need for ordnance officers, with the great increase in the amount of military equipment being manufactured, caused the authorities to put out a call for increased enrollment.

Cumberland Gap was discovered by Daniel Boone when on a hunting expedition in 1769. Six years later he and his companion blazed a trail through this gap in the mountains which was afterwards known as the Wilderness road.

Sluggers Toss Blows Monday

Neither Reale Nor Stanko Clever, Dote On Heavy Punches

GRUMBACHER TO TEST LES LEASURE

Fans who like an old-time knock-down and drag-out fistic fracas are apt to have the desire achieved when two light-heavyweights, Billy Reale, Castlewood, and George Stanko, Cleveland, meet in the main three round battle of an eight-bout pugilistic extravaganza in The Arena. Neither knows much about the scientific phase of boxing, hence fans can look forward to a "long-shoreman's" fight.

Reale has been training in the Jefferson Athletic club and reputedly is in the best conditon he has been for some months. Stanko has been "prepping" at Erie, where he headquarters and according to reports received by Matchmaker Tommy Leach, he, likewise, is in good condition.

Prospective Good Schedule

Lester Leasure, this city's heavy-hitting middleweight, will oppose Billy Grumbacher of Youngstown in the semi-final. This bout, in itself, ordinarily would be an attraction. Les likes to fight. The same may be said of "Grumbie" so a hot conflict is forecast for the semi-final.

Others battles carded for Monday follow:

Phil Nartacko, Erie, vs. Frankie Cordy, Niles, 135 pounds.

Jimmie Varketta, Erie, vs. Baby Face Leasure, this city, 135 pounds.

Pete Misto, Youngstown, vs. Chris Tabor, Niles, 147 pounds.

Foo Yee, Youngstown Chinese, vs. Bobby Grochenour, Ashtabula, 112 pounds.

Frankie Genaro, former G. G. champion, Youngstown, vs. Bobby Quirke, Erie, 147 pounds.

Albert Leasure, this city, vs. Frankie Muche, Niles, 135 pounds.

Local fighters will end heavy training Saturday, do light exercise the next day and rest Monday until 8:30 p. m. when the first gong will sound.

Factor Girls Trip Niles Leeds Five

The Joe Factor girls basketball team defeated the Leeds Jewelers of Niles, O., last night at the Falcon hall, 14 to 2.

Kate Smith, Jerry Gall and Ara Feldkemp had the visitors bewildered by their cleverness, so much in fact that the Niles team walked off the floor in the second quarter.

The Faetors have won 16 games out of 20 games played this season. There are about six games left on the Factor schedule. The Factors have without a doubt one of the finest girls basketball teams in the entire country playing boys' rules.

HOUSE LEAGUE GAME

The Jewels will play the Engineering Works team in a House league game at the "Y" tonight at 7 o'clock.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Dick Roberts, one of the fish wardens for Lawrence county, stated today that no trout for stocking have yet arrived. However, fishermen are glad none were placed in county streams because high water might have washed them away.

According to the Pennsylvania Angler an unusual sight was witnessed by two Washington, Pa. anglers. It appears they went to a place known as Dam No. 4 and found a large wall-eyed pike which had been choked to death attempting to swallow a big blue-gill.

Local fishermen are in a happy mood. Some of them are getting ready to travel to Pymatuning as soon as weather conditions become better. They want to fish for crappies. One of those who scarcely can wait for sunshine is Wayne Sines.

In San Francisco tonight, Cornelius Warmerdam will attempt to pole-vault 16 feet. The 26-year-old Piedmont high school teacher was the first and only one ever to vault 15 feet or more. He has "ridden" over the bar at that height at least 15 times. The 16-foot vault, ridiculed by many not so long ago as a physical impossibility, is within Warmerdam's capabilities. Several times he has been over at that height, only to brush off the bar on the down plunge. To facilitate the record attempt, he has been provided with a 140-foot runway.

Following a lapse of 21 years, W. & J. is to have a baseball team. The Prexies abandoned the diamond sport in 1921 when Bob Coulson, who played with Brooklyn, among other National League teams, was the coach. The season will open May 30 with Kiski. This will be news to Jim Elder, Bob White, Bob Muse and others who are W. & J. alumni. And, by the way, the New Castle alumni dinner will be held in The Castleton March 18.

Drawings will be held this morning at Penn State for the annual Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling association championships there today and tomorrow. Penn is favored to capture the meet. . . Wally Kettlewell, senior guard, has been named honorary captian of the 1942 W. & J. floor team.

Junior Church League Schedule

Four more games will be played in the junior church basketball league at the "Y" on Saturday afternoon and evening.

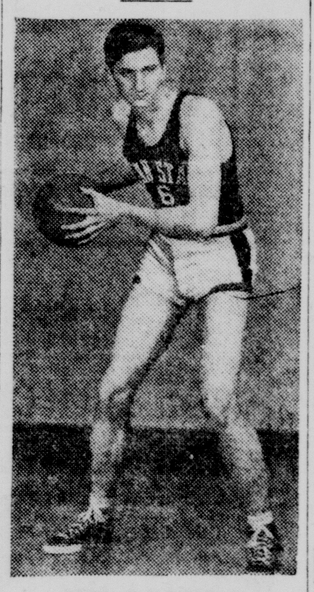

The first game at 4:15 o'clock will find the First Baptist team battling the First Christians. At 6:15 o'clock the First Presbyterians play the SS. Phillip and James team, and the other two games are as follows: St. George "Little Fighting Spartans vs First Methodists and the Central Christians battling the St. Mary's team.

Herk Baltimore Is Ace In Hole For Penn State

New Castle Athlete Has Scored 162 Points; Is All Around Performer

HERK BALTIMORE

Only a junior on Penn State's N.C.A.A. tournament-bound basketball team, New Castle's Herk Baltimore has already earned the sobriquet of "Old Reliable."

His basketball kit fully equipped, the Lawrence countian is the Lions' ace in the hole.

The popular six foot, four inch center has been the most consistant performer in the Nittany Lions' string of 17 victories this season. Herk has averaged 8.5 points per game for a total of 162 points to finish second to Co-Captain Elmer Gross with 168 for team scoring honors.

Accurate Shot

The rangy Lion center has developed a deadly accurate "overhead shot" which was largely responsible for State's 37-36 upset of Syracuse at Syracuse last month. In an overtime period Herk connected on three occasions to give the Lions a sensational victory.

In tallying 128 points as a sophomore in 1941, Baltimore has brought his two-year total to 290 points. If Herk can score 230 markers next year, he will be able to smash Penn State's all-time scoring record of 519 points which was set by All-American Johnny Barr in 1939, '40 and '41.

In adition to fine overhead sharpshooting and splendid defensive play, Baltimore has aided many Lion scoring sprees by his ability to take rebound shots off the banking boards.

The Nittany Lions are now riding on the crest of 12 straight victories which is the new Penn State record for consecutive games won. The old record of 10 straight had been on the record books since 1925.

With Coach John Lawther's cagers invited to represent District 2 (New York, New Jersey, West Virginia, Delaware and Pennsylvania) in the N.C.A.A. tournament in New Orleans on March 20 and 21, New Castle High's Herky Baltimore is certain to play a big part in the drive for the mythical national championship.

N. Y. A. Cage Aces Mark Up 14th Win

Once again sparked by their ace in the hole, John Antonio, the N. Y. A. cagers rolled up their 14th victory of the season, easily repelling the Plaingrove Boosters, 59-45, Thursday night.

Antonio, the top independent scorer in the county, rattled the rims for 24 points. J. B. Wilson pumped in 16 points.

Church League To End Tonight

The New Castle church basketball league that began last November, will end tonight at the "Y" floor with the playing of three games.

In the first game at 7:45 o'clock the Baptists battle the St. Vitus team. In the second game the First Presbyterians play the St. Marys quintet and in the third game the St. George "Fighting Spartans" will battle the Mahoning Methodist team, and should take it.

George Compton Going To Army

Former Favorite Of Fight Fans Departs Next Week For Service

GEORGE COMPTON

There strolled into The News today an old friend of Jolly bowl days, a chap who threw fans into a frenzy everytime he engaged in a bout. He is George Compton of Beaver Falls. He came from the valley city to bid us good-bye because next week George will be wearing a soldier's uniform.

George is somewhat stouter now than 10 years ago when he battled Bobby Belford of Alliance twice in the bowl then beat Sammy Busang of Monaca only to wind up with the only defeat of his career when Johnny Slate of this city, fractured Compton's jaw in the third round at Centennial field.

Compton earned an enviable fistic reputation. As an amateur he boxed approximately 50 times and did not lose a decision. He leaped into the professionals and won 18 consecutive fights, the nineteenth being with Slate. That fight was one of the best up to the time of the accident fans hereabouts witnessed in those days.

STATE EMPLOYES BUY DEFENSE STAMPS; BONDS

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 13.—State employes bought $1,071,454 worth of defense bonds and stamps during a 30-day campaign to induce every state employe under the governor's jurisdiction to purchase them, it was disclosed Thursday. A total of 99.9 per cent. of 40,948 employes contacted made some purchases, averaging $26.16 per employe.

Conscience isn't worth much when it lets people feel smugly religious while taking advantage of the helpless.

SATURDAY POST EDITOR RESIGNS

PHILADELPHIA, March 13—The Curtis Publishing Company announced today that Wesley Winans Stout, editor of the Saturday Evening Post since 1937, has resigned effective Monday because of a "firm but friendly disagreement with the company on policy."

Stout will be succeeded by Ben Hibbs, for the last year editor of Country Gentleman, another Curtis publication. Both Hibbs and Stout are former newspapermen and both are natives of Kansas.

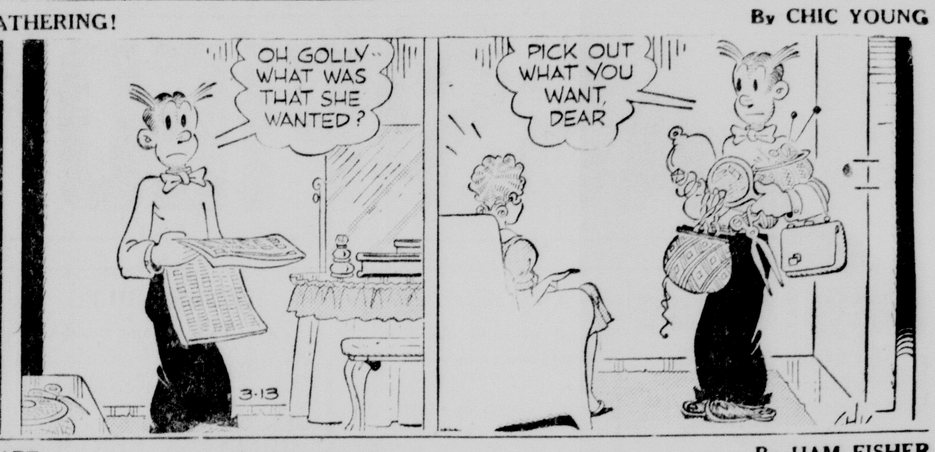

The globefish or sea-hedgehog, can inflate its stomach with air or water. The body is covered with tough skin, without scales, but provided with spines. When the stomach is inflated the fish assumes a globular form with protruding spines, forming a defensive armor.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

According to a report that we have just picked up . . . concerning the Kiwanis Show, "Hocus Pocus" . . . everything seems to be in the right column. Percentage of laughs is way above the average show . . . talent is rated very high . . . attendance has been to capacity crowds . . . Yesterday afternoon a lot of school children were turned away . . . yes, it looks like a huge success and you still have time to see the show tonight . . . And remember if you haven't a ticket there are still some good seats available at the box office . . . so don't delay, come right along.

* * *

Dogs, dogs, dogs . . . the best friend man ever had. Well, that is what we read some place or other . . . and a lot of people will agree . . . a dog can't talk back. Here are a few that would like to have good homes . . . can you take care of them.

312 Reis street . . . small, part cocker spaniel, male . . . make a fine pet.

Fairweather, 1010 Summit . . . Phone 4898-R . . . Hound dog about 5 months old. Here is your chance to get ready for hunting next fall.

One week from tomorrow . . . that will be a Saturday . . . will be the 21st day of March . . . according to the way we look at the figures, that will be the first day of spring . . . that doesn't mean that snow is gone, by no means, it has been known to snow in May . . . let's hope that snow will be gone but that we will be blessed with gentle spring showers . . . showers that will make our Victory Gardens produce sufficient crops to keep this and other God loving countries alive . . . alive so that they might bring back to the face of the earth, peace.

* * *

It sure would be mighty nice if some way could be fixed so that North Mercer street could be paved . . . made nice and smooth and thus relieve traffic on other more traveled streets in that section. If all those people who are really interested in this paving project would write or call their councilman . . . maybe someone would think up a way to accomplish this feat . . . When the Hill was paved people said, crazy idea . . . but this winter has proven that it wasn't crazy. It is the best paved hill in the city.

* * *

How about taking a little time and read this page from top to bottom and back up again . . . Savings is what you want now days . . . here they are.

Stock Market Develops Rally

DuPont Features In Recovery Of Three Points During Morning

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 13.—The stock market rallied today after its recent decline to new four-year bottoms. Leading were the chief bear targets on the week's break, DuPont featuring on an extreme recovery of 3 points.

Chemicals generally were in the van of the upswing, with gains of a point or more in Air Reduction, Dow and Union Carbide.

Elsewhere improvement was limited to fractions for the most part. A few scattered issues moved up a point or so.

U. S. Gypsum, Chrysler, Bethlehem Steel, Sears Roebuck and Owens-Illinois Glass were among the representative stocks to climb a point or more.

Lesser gains were chalked up by U. S. Steel, General Motors, Anaconda, General Electric, Pennsylvania R. R., Standard Oil of N. J., U. S. Rubber, United Aircraft, Boeing and Consolidated Edison.

Several issues continued to lag. Outstanding was the pressure on American Airlines, which tumbled more than 3 points to a new low on the government ruling the company had received $4,000,000 in excess mail pay since March 1, 1939.

Also lower were Santa Fe, down a point, Westinghouse, Texas Co., American Water Works, Loew's, National Biscuit and Deere.

Many Routine Matters Before School Board

Number Of Changes In Teaching Staff—May Have All Children Finger Printed

ELLWOOD CITY, March 13.—Last evening the regular March meeting of the Ellwood School Board was held in the Lincoln school with most of the business being routine.

A military leave of absence was granted Pat Rubino, teacher, who will be inducted soon into the army; and a military leave was also granted Jordan Mancheff, North Side school janitor, who will accept employment in a defense industry. Rubino's place will be taken by Miss Betty Hunter, New Wilmington. William Lowry, who has also been teaching, will leave to accept a position in Indiana state, with the DuPont company.

Tax Millage Rate May Be Increased

Indications Of Increase Of 2½ Mills In Tax Levy Rate For Year

ELLWOOD CITY, March 13—In all probability, the Ellwood City Boro tax millage will be increased two mills this year bringing the total levy to 9½ mills. A budget and amendment based on a 9½ mill tax rate was formally adopted by members of the Boro Council last evening, and the millage ordinance would, undoubtedly, have been passed save for a technicality.

The call for the special meeting stated only that the budget would be adopted failing to mention the passing of the tax rate; therefore, Councilman members, Frank Biordi and Harry Caplan, were absent, the solicitor advised that Council hold-up action until another meeting. The meeting will be held on Monday evening as March 15 is the last day that the action can be taken.

The amendment to the budget included: $5,000 to be paid toward the purchase of a new fire truck to cost about $16,000; $2,500 for the purchase of a stone crusher; and a $5,000 unappropriated balance for unforeseen expenses. The total of the three items amounts to $12,500 which the members thought would be taken care of with the addition of two mills to the tax rate. Boyd objected to the amendment with all other members voting affirmatively. The boro tax was decreased from ten to the present 7½ mill rate about three years ago. Except for the above mentioned items there was no provision made for any new improvement.

A resolution was passed that Council advertise at once for a new aerial fire truck. In going over the budget, item by item, Council decided to drop $200 which had been given to the fire department last summer in lieu of taking the equipment to parades. Under the present emergency, Sleighter said the department would not want to take the equipment away this year.

Since the national soap box derby has been cancelled for the duration, the small appropriation for that local event was dropped.

Boyd challenged the $2,000 appropriation to the playground commission, stating that they did not submit a detailed budget. Boro Manager Monroe said the money was used for administration and equipment. It was pointed out that the National Tube company, and the Board of Education each contribute an additional $1,000 to the fund, while the mill additionally takes care of placing and storing the equipment of the Shelby playgrounds.
